48 RICHLAND SIGNATURES ON RED PETITIONS

State Makes Careful Check as Result of Misrepresentation Charges by Signers.

MANY SEEK TO WITHDRAW

County Board to Get Communist Lists, Check Validity of Names on Them.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—If there is sufficient evidence to show Communist party petitions were circulated fraudulently in Ohio, Gov. John W. Bricker said today he might request a grand jury investigation.

Petitions bearing the names of 48 Richland county residents, seeking to put a Communist ticket on the fall election ballot, were being checked at Columbus today.

Submitted to the secretary of state's office, they will be returned to the Richland county election board for verification of names by the end of the week, Secretary of State George Neffner said today.

Usually, such checks are routine, but in the case of the Communist petitions, the check will be more than that—for the reason that evidence has been found that in some counties signatures on the petitions were obtained by misrepresentation, an offense punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

News-Journal reporters checking the Richland county lists in Neffner's Columbus office today said that the office was packed with signers chiefly from Columbus who said the petitions had been misrepresented to them.

Two petition forms were submitted from Richland county. One bore 46 names. The other bore 12 names. Of the total of 58 names, 10 were disqualified as illegible at Neffner's office.

Neffner said his office hoped to send the Richland petitions back to the local board by Friday. The Richland board will then check the names of the signers against registration cards to ascertain two things: (1) whether the signer is a registered voter, and (2) whether the signature is authentic.

The local board is authorized to throw out any signature not meeting those requirements. Where a man has signed for himself and wife, the wife's signature is to be thrown out, Neffner said.

Neffner also said he would consider letters addressed to

German Raids Fail to Blockade Britain, Declares War Correspondent, Touring Bomb-Spattered Coast

(EDITOR'S NOTE: H. R. Knickerbocker, International News Service's ace roving foreign correspondent, has just completed a 48-hour tour of British bomb-shattered ports along the southeast coast. Knickerbocker vividly describes conditions resulting from the German aerial onslaught.)

LONDON—Great Britain is bleeding but unbowed.

Chancellor Hitler's vicious air attacks on the southeast coast have been going on now three weeks and the German press boasts that Marshal Goering's Luftwaffe has utterly destroyed most of the cities and ports along this stretch of shore.

The fate of this island, and the ultimate decision of the war, depends whether or not enough destruction has been wrought in order to effect a total blockade.

During the last 48 hours, I have personally visited every port from Margate to Portsmouth, interviewed local police, air raid wardens, and citizens, and obtained a complete panorama of conditions in this most severely assaulted part of England.

The summarized findings are that Britain has endured the worst air raids in history—with the sole exception of Rotterdam—but that only 150 persons have been killed and less than 500 injured in eight principal cities and ports on the southeast coast after three weeks of the fiercest aerial pounding.

Approximately 1,600 houses, 90 per cent of which are the homes of workers and small shop keepers, have been destroyed or damaged beyond repair. The harm done to military objectives, dock, and harbor facilities is astonishingly small.

DR. C. G. BROWN DIES AT HOME

Prominent Mansfield Physician Was Bedfast Three Weeks With Heart Ailment.

Dr. Charles G. Brown, widely-known Mansfield physician and surgeon, who had practiced medicine in this city for the past 36 years, died unexpectedly shortly after noon Monday at his home, 190 Park avenue west. He was stricken with a heart ailment three weeks ago and had been confined to his bed since.

Dr. Brown died just two days before his birthday. He would have been 66 on Sept. 4.

Dr. Brown, the son of the late Col. Robert and Mary Gailey Brown, pioneer residents of Richland county, was born Sept. 4, 1874, on the old Brown homestead in Washington township, now known as Brownlea farm. The farm has been in the Brown family since 1819.

Attending the Jefferson Medical college at Philadelphia, he received his medical degree and, following

AREA ESCAPES AS HIGHWAY TOLL HITS 204

Only Minor Traffic Accidents Reported in Richland; 22 Dead in Ohio.

The Richland county area escaped with minor traffic accidents and slight injuries to six people yesterday as the toll of week-end highway fatalities throughout the nation reached 204.

Fatal accidents, shootings, and drownings for the three-day holiday totaled 22 in Ohio.

Worst injured in the Richland county area was Mrs. Johanna Feyer, 33, of Pittsburgh who sustained a broken collar bone in an accident yesterday afternoon on Route 42 near Ashland. She was taken to Samaritan hospital and is expected to be released today.

The Feyer car skidded and turned over, slightly injuring Homer Feyer. Their three children, Marion, 9, Norma, 6, and Fred, 3, were uninjured. Mrs. Feyer was driving.

In another accident on Route 42 an automobile driven by John Bambach, 52, Cincinnati, collided with a car driven by Albert Arnold, also of Cincinnati.

Laura Bambach, 50, who was riding in the car driven by Bambach, received lacerations. Mrs. N. Wiemer, also riding in Bambach's car, received bruises.

Cars driven by Nicklas Bonyai, 18, Lexington, and Clarence Lape, 26, of Bellville, collided just north of Lexington yesterday, injuring Virgil Parks, 18, of Lexington. Bonyai and Parks escaped with minor cuts and bruses.

No one in the Lape car was hurt.

Elsewhere in the state framer of Ohio Labor day legislation, John P. Green, 95-year-old Cleveland attorney, was killed when an automobile struck him while crossing the street.

37th Urges Training For Un-Drafted Men

Vets Also Unanimously Approve Military Conscription as They Elect New Officers, Close Reunion.

By GEORGE SATTLER

A national system of mass physical training for those not called to the colors under conscription, so that they may be found fit when and if called, was advocated at the closing session of the 37th Division A. E. F. Veterans' association reunion yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The recommendation came in the form of a resolution read by Capt. Victor Heintz of Cincinnati, who was one of the four members of congress who offered their services to the army when war was declared in 1917.

"Three murderous mortals are ruthlessly seeking to destroy, by foul means, the very vestiges of democracy and the kind of government and manner of living which our country has sought to maintain from its inception," he said.

"Therefore, it is necessary that the nation speedily rearm and build up our defensive forces on land, sea, and in the air to the extent that our shores be impregnable from the attacks of any nation or group of nations."

The resolution also advocated that "a compulsory service, selective draft law be immediately passed" to further these aims.

Also recommended in the resolution was that "all Fifth Col-

FDR Reveals Exchange for Defense Bases

Britain Gives Rights in Bermuda And Newfoundland, Trades Sites in Seven Other Colonies for Old U. S. Warships

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today the British within a few days would take possession of the first of the 50 U. S. destroyers traded to them.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Great Britain has given the United States definite assurance of its intentions "never to surrender or sink the British fleet in the event of the waters surrounding the British Isles becoming untenable for His Majesty's ships."

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Roosevelt today advised congress that he had completed negotiations with Great Britain whereby the United States acquires air and naval base rights on British western hemisphere possessions in exchange for 50 over-age U. S. Destroyers.

Under the agreement reached, Mr. Roosevelt said in a special message, this country is given 99-year leases on base sites in the following British possessions:

Newfoundland, Bermuda, The Bahamas, Jamaica, St. Lucia, Trinidad, Antigua and British Guiana.

The rights to bases in Newfoundland and Bermuda, Mr. Roosevelt said, were outright gifts, the balance in exchange for destroyers.

Although it was not made clear in the communication, Great Britain presumably will receive the 50 over-age destroyers immediately.

Attached to the message to congress was a lengthy legal opinion by Attorney-General Jackson holding that congressional action would not be necessary to make the Anglo-American deal binding.

Mr. Roosevelt's history-making message was only five paragraphs long.

In it the president characterized the agreement as "the most important action in the reinforcement of our national defense that has been taken since the Louisiana purchase."

Attached to Mr. Roosevelt's message were copies of official correspondence between Secretary of State Hull and British Ambassador Lord Lothian which led to the promulgation of the agreement which will vastly strengthen defenses of the United States in the North and South Atlantic and the Caribbean, and which will provide England with badly-needed additional warships.

Text of Mr. Roosevelt's message follows:

"I transmit herewith for the information of the con-

BANKER JAILED

Holmes County Man Held on False Entry Charge.

MILLERSBURG — Ralph Bahler, 47, member of a well-known Holmes county banking family, who was employed at the Walnut Creek branch of the Commercial Savings bank of Millersburg was held in Holmes county jail here today.

He was charged with false entry of funds of the Walnut Creek school district. The arrest was made by Sheriff Harry Weiss, on an affidavit signed by Prosecutor W. W. Badger.

Officials were reluctant to talk about the case, but it was understood that FBI men had been in the county for some time and would prosecute the case.

AUDIT OPENS

State Examiners Start Periodic Check of City Records.

A periodic audit of city records was started this morning by examiners of the bureau of audit and inspection, division of the state auditor's department.

R. B. Beverly of Columbus and J. W. Roin, Marion, took over the job which they said will take about four months to complete. The audit will cover the period from Nov. 19, 1938, to Aug. 30.

Moore, the liner's co-pilot, met his wife several years ago when his small plane "cracked up" near her home in Montpelier, O.

Richland County Whooping Cough Shows Big Gain

Paced by a wave of whooping cough which swept through the county, communicable diseases during July showed more than a 30 percent increase. Dr. W. L. Merz, assistant city-county health commissioner has reported to the Richland county board of health.

Acting as secretary to the board during the absence of Dr. Roy C. Kehder, commissioner, Dr. Merz said a total of 62 cases of contagious diseases were reported in the county during July as compared with 43 reported in June.

He said that whooping cough accounted for 61 of the 62 cases recorded during the month. There was 29 cases of the disease reported in June.

Deaths and births both showed increase during the month, Dr. Merz reported. Eighteen deaths were recorded to boost the county total to 171 for the year while 25 births were recorded to raise that total to 133 since Jan. 1.

Among the 800 to be appointed in the state were Frank Beverstock, Mansfield; Ellen Bowers, Bellville; D. A. Spayde, Butler; Eva Banks, Lucas; Lee C. Henry, Olivesburg; Clarence M. Ervin, Plymouth; W. R. Morris, Shelby, and George Page, Shiloh.

Others in nearby counties include Mrs. Lucinda Tressel, Danville; Raymond Yost, Frederickstown, and C. F. Allerding and A. A. Topp, Mt. Vernon.

BEATEN: German Fliers Take Thorough Trimming In Raids

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—German air raiders, already repulsed once today in a mass attack on the southeast coast, returned to battle shortly afterward both on the southeast coast and in northeast Scotland.

At least seven German raiders were reported shot down in the early phases of today's air fighting, three over the English channel, three others in an attack on the Thames estuary and another near a southeast coast town.

The main German attacks apparently were directed again chiefly at airdromes in southeastern England, which have been attacked repeatedly since Aug. 18.

Meanwhile the admiralty announced that a Norwegian torpedo boat co-operating with British naval forces had shot down a German dive bomber which attacked the torpedo boat and a nearby merchantship.

In the earlier repulse of the German mass attack on the southeast coast, fighting lasted more than an hour before the Germans scattered and headed back over the channel.

In one coastal district six airmen were seen drifting down by parachute several miles from the scene of the main battle, apparently having jumped from disabled planes.

The attacks provided a bloody opening for Britain's second year of war.

Shortly after the London area had its 37th raid alarm of the war, the invaders, a large force of bombers accompanied by scores of fighters, came roaring over the coast.

There were hundreds of the raiding planes, heading toward the London area.

The British fighters rose to intercept them, and the battle was on.

Many German planes were believed to have been sent crashing to earth.

The roar of exploding bombs came like thunder for several minutes as the battle shaped into one of the largest of the war.

The Germans apparently were thoroughly beaten as, after the hour's fighting, they jettisoned their bombs and turned homeward with British fighters in pursuit.

The southeast coast battle, the biggest that particular vicinity had experienced, developed when a large force of German bombers accompanied by scores of Messerschmitt fighters, encountered a strong flight of British fighter planes.

The British attacked the German formations, which came in over the southeast coast, just as

Looking Ahead--At New Year of World War II

Editor's Note—Here is the second of two dispatches in connection with the first anniversary of the war.

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
(UP Foreign News Editor)

This second year of war may bring the do-or-die battle of Britain.

After 12 months of conflict Germany and Italy are hammering at the bastions of the greatest empire since Rome ruled the western world.

The next year—whether or not it ends the war—may determine whether the British can:

1. Win the battle of Britain, stand off the Axis thrusts at key points of the empire such as Gibraltar or Suez and avoid collision with the expanding Japanese and Soviet Russian frontiers.

2. Wrest the initiative from Germany and Italy and take the offensive in a drive to break Nazi and Fascist military power.

A year of war has failed to show whether the Axis powers can achieve their goal of breaking up the British empire. But Britain, too, has yet to demonstrate that she can overcome tremendous Nazi-Fascist gains.

The second year of conflict will not necessarily bring a final decision, but in the furious tempo of modern warfare it must at least provide the clues to the outcome of the campaigns in Europe and Africa. These clues may be found by a watching world in the struggle around the British Isles and the Suez canal and in the ability of Britain to strike back by air bombardment and blockade the fuel that runs the totalitarian war machines.

Of paramount immediate importance is

The Battle of Britain.

The clue to the outcome of the battle of Britain—which the London government must win to maintain the British empire in its present form—must be sought primarily in the Royal Air Force.

Naval power, coastal defenses, food and war supplies and civilian morale will be of importance, but air power will probably be the deciding factor in victory or defeat in the British Isles. If the Royal Air Force can hold out against Germany's numerical superiority and if new planes can be produced or purchased rapidly enough to give the British constantly increasing air strength, the greatest opportunity of the Axis powers will have vanished.

Another indication of the trend of conflict will be sought in German preparations for or attempts to invade Britain. Military experts regard an invasion from French bases as extremely difficult if not impossible as long as British air strength is not broken. Landing an army would mean interrupted supply lines for an indefinite period. British air strength concentrated along the channel would be in a position to deal tremendous blows at an invader.

50 Destroyers Traded To Britain for Bases

U. S. Gets Defense Sites in Bermuda And Newfoundland as Gifts, Leases 7 Other Places

gress notes exchanged between the British amdassador at Washington and the Secretary of State on September 2, 1940, under which this government has acquired the right to lease naval and air bases in Newfoundland, and in the islands of Bermuda, The Bahamas, Jamaica, St. Lucia, Trinidad, and Antigua, and in British Guiana; also a copy of an opinion of the attorney general dated August 27, 1940, regarding my authority to consummate this arrangement.

"The right to bases in Newfoundland and Bermuda are gifts—generously given and gladly received. The other bases mentioned have been acquired in exchange for fifty of our over-age destroyers.

"This is not inconsistent in any sense with our status of peace. Still less is it a threat against any nation. It is an epochal and far-reaching act of preparation for continental defense in the face of grave danger.

"Preparation for defense is an inalienable prerogative of a sovereign state. Under present circumstances this exercise of sovereign right is essential to the maintenance of our peace and safety. This is the most important action in the reinforcement of our national defense that has been taken since the Louisiana purchase. Then as now, considerations of safety from overseas attack were fundamental.

"The value to the western hemisphere of these outposts of security is beyond calculation. Their need has long been recognized by our country, and especially by those primarily charged with the duty of charting and organizing our own naval and military defense. They are essential to the protection of the Panama Canal. Central America, the northern portion of South America, the Antilles, Canada, Mexico, and our own eastern and gulf seaboards. Their consequent importance in hemispheric defense is obvious. For these reasons I have taken advantage of the present opportunity to acquire them.'

In his letter to Hull, Lord Lothian declared the historic transaction was promulgated because of the "friendly and sympathetic interest of His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom in the national security of the United States and their desire to strengthen the ability of the United States to co-operate effectively with the other nations of the Americas in the defense of the western hemisphere."

All the bases and facilities are being leased for a 99-year period free from all rent and charges other than compensation for owners of private property who may suffer losses by expropriation or damage arising out of the establishment of the military facilities.

Lothian's letter fixed the exact location of the bases as follows: the Avalon peninsula and a portion of the southern coast of Newfoundland; the east coast and the great Bay of Bermuda; the eastern side of the Bahamas; the southern coast of Jamaica; the western coast of St. Lucia; the west coast of Trinidad in the Gulf of Paria; the island of Antigua and in British Guiana within 50 miles of Georgetown, the colony's capital.

The two governments will designate a group of experts to determine such details as the specific location and boundaries of the bases, the necessary seaward, coast and anti-aircraft defenses, the location of sufficient military garrisons, the stores and other necessary auxiliary facilities.

Although Lord Lothian's letter said that the United States will exchange naval and military equipment and material for the bases, Hull's letter as well as the president's message mentioned only the 50 destroyers as the "consideration" which the United States will transfer to Great Britain.

These destroyers, built by the United States during the first World war are approximately 1,200 tons each.

It is estimated by naval experts that the ships do not require much expense in the process of recommissioning. Although they have been part of the American navy's laid-up fleet, the vessels have been kept in good shape, with their engines packed in grease.

Attorney General Jackson's opinion indicated that originally the United States proposed to transfer to England a fleet of small patrol boats or "mosquito" ships which now are nearly completed but already are considered obsolescent by the navy.

Jackson's opinion, however, held that American statutes prohibit the transfer of the mosquito boats. The opinion cited a wartime act providing that while the United States is a neutral it is unlawful to send to a belligerent any ship built, armed or equipped as a vessel of war with the intent that such ships be used by a belligerent.

While this law, according to Jackson, would apply to the mosquito fleet, it would not be applicable to the over-aged destroyers which were not built with the intent that they should enter the service of a belligerent.

Jackson noted that during the Russian-Japanese war in 1904, the German government permitted sale to Russia of torpedo boats and ocean liners belonging to its auxiliary navy.

No congressional action on the agreement will be necessary Jackson held. He said:

"The proposed arrangement may be concluded as an executive agreement, effective without awaiting ratification."

President Roosevelt, completing a quick trip to eastern Tennessee and North Carolina to dedicate two government projects, inspected a naval ordnance plant at Charleston, W. Va., today before returning to the White House.

In his national park dedication address yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt informed the nation of the premise on which he is basing unprecedented armament orders and other emergency defense precautions.

"The greatest attack that has ever been launched against freedom of the individual is nearer the Americas than ever before," he warned.

He said that Americans have "grown soft in many ways" and that they must toughen themselves as did their pioneer forebears to prepare "in a thousand ways" against enemies from abroad and at home.

"If we are to survive we cannot be soft in a world in which there are dangers that threaten America—danger far more deadly than those the frontiersmen had to face," he said.

To meet the attack against freedom, Mr. Roosevelt continued, we must prepare beforehand—"for preparing later may and probably would be too late."

"We in this hour must have absolute national unity for total defense," he said.

He assured his audience, however, that we can meet the threat to the American way of life.

"We can meet it in the old frontier way," he said. "We can forge our weapons, train ourselves to shoot, meet fire with fire, and with the unity of the frontiersman."

Earlier Mr. Roosevelt dedicated the new $36,000,000 Chickamauga dam on the Tennessee river, the latest constructed by the Tennessee Valley Authority. In that address he scornfully denounced those who criticized the TVA program and promised to extend and improve the New Deal's program for development of national resources by the federal government.

WAYNE COUNTY FAIR ALL SET

Record Breaking Entries For Event Received; Opens Next Tuesday.

WOOSTER — The "1940 Edition" of the Wayne county fair to be held at Wooster on Sept. 10 to 13 will be the best in the 91 years history of the event, in the opinion of Walter J. Buss, Wooster, secretary.

Record breaking entries of close to 7,500 are expected when the books close on Saturday evening, Sept. 7, at the special fair office in the courthouse.

The grange, baby beef, school, draft horse, junior fair, dairy cattle and flower shows are believed to be the largest in the state outside the state fair.

The management has planned a $5,000 entertainment program and $10,000 in regular and special premiums will be awarded.

Features of the program will be, the ten harness races, two bicycle and five pony races, the cattle and horse parades, and Col. Jack Raum's Circus and thrill shows. There will be four days and four nights at the fair.

The program which follows is the most complete ever offered patrons of the big Wayne county event.

OFFICERS CONTINUE DRIVE ON RECKLESS DRIVING, ARREST 10

State highway patrolmen and police continued their drive on speeding and reckless driving over the holiday week-end citing 10 offenders into court today.

Three drivers were fined and their driving rights revoked for one year when arraigned on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

They were Steve Grasse, 36 Mendota street, M. E. Madden, 43, of 1212 Lexington avenue, both of whom were fined $50 and costs in municipal court this morning when they pleaded guilty to the charge, and William E. Hosey, 36, of R. D. 1, Crestline, who was fined $100 and costs when convicted in mayor's court at Shelby.

Two drivers pleaded guilty to speeding and paid $10 fines. They were William Vincent, 28, Elyria, and Marshall E. Leiter, 31, R. D. 3, Mansfield.

Three others, all from distant cities, forfeited $25 bonds when they failed to appear in municipal court to answer charges filed against them.

They were Victor J. Cupito, 21, Cincinnati, charged with speeding; Joseph P. Bonaventura, 21, Cincinnati, unsafe driving, and Stanley Patterson, 25, Portsmouth, speeding.

Jacob Fischer, Mansfield, will be arraigned tomorrow on a charge of failing to observe a stop sign when driving onto Route 13 from Cook road.

INVENTOR SAYS WRIGHT FIELD BUILDS MODEL

Declares Radio Controlled Ship Costs Only $500; Army Denies It.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—A pilotless airplane capable of observing or bombing enemy emplacements is being developed for the United States army.

Dr. Lee De Forest, television and radio authority, said today that army engineers at Dayton, O., are now building an experimental model of his plane.

The small plane—which could be built for $500, he said—will be controlled by radio, probably from a "mother" plane flying high above it out of reach of enemy anti-aircraft fire.

The robot ship could be equipped either with explosives to act as an aerial torpedo, or with a television camera to observe enemy action. Impulses from the television camera could be received by human observers in the controlling craft.

Because it would carry no pilot, the ship could be manufactured from plastic, without armor, De Forest said, and one pilot-bearing plane could direct four robot-guided craft from a distance as great as 10 miles.

"It would not be necessary to figure on bringing the planes back," De Forest said. "The planes would fly 425 miles an hour and, if loaded with explosives, would be deadly effective as projectiles."

'FANTASTIC'

DAYTON—(U.P.)—Wright field officials today dismissed as "fantastic" a statement by Dr. Lee De Forest, television and radio inventor, that blueprints for a secret television torpedo airplane are in possession of engineers at the army experimental field here.

Capt. George V. Holloman, aircraft radio laboratory engineer, denied flatly that any such plans were on hand.

Reports from Los Angeles quoted De Forest that the robot plane would be capable of reconnaissance and destruction of objectives without use of human pilots.

CARRIERS WANT LIGHTER LOADS

Change in Friday Magazine Releases Urged.

TOLEDO—(AP)—The Ohio state association of letter carriers wants a change made in the Friday release dates of publications to lighten the mailman's Friday load.

Such a resolution was among those adopted at the 42nd annual convention here. Others called for better pay and working conditions and end to factionalism in the labor movement.

Howard M. Nicol, Cuyahoga Falls, was named president. Others elected were Nathan F. Horton, Springfield, vice president, and Harold Patterson, Canton, member of the executive board.

FEDERAL PEN ESCAPE FAILS

Prisoner Critically Wounded At Chillicothe.

CHILLICOTHE—(AP)—A prisoner lay critically wounded in the U. S. reformatory hospital today after he and five fellow inmates tried to escape from the institution.

Guards' gunfire felled William Glenn Sullivan, 18, of Chattanooga, Tenn., serving a sentence for auto theft.

The six broke out of line last night while returning from on institution movie. Five got over an eight-foot fence but were caught within 10 minutes.

PRIESTS STOP YOUTH'S LEAP

Wanted to Follow Sweetheart, Killed In Jump.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Despondent over the death of his sweetheart who leaped from a fourth story window ledge to escape a burning building, Stanley Logan, 22, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., poised for a suicide leap from the same spot today, shouting:

"I want to be with her! Go away before I jump!"

Neighbors and two priests, one Father Francis X. Quinn, winner of a congressional medal for saving an elderly couple from a hold-up man, succeeded in preventing the leap.

PLAN RITES FOR MRS. GARBERICH

Services Set Tomorrow For Victim of Accident at Galion.

GALION—Funeral services for Mrs. Gertrude A. Garberich, 59, who died at the Good Samaritan hospital early Sunday, will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the United Brethren church. Rev. O. E. Knepp will be in charge of the service and burial will be in the Fairview cemetery.

Death was caused from a fractured skull, suffered when a large stray dog knocked her to the pavement in Galion Saturday evening.

Mrs. Garberich resided two miles west of Galion on Winchester road. She was born in Bucyrus, Feb. 4, 1881, the daughter of D. O. and Anne Castle. She had spent most of her life in and near Galion. She was married to Frank B. Garberich of near Galion, who preceded her in death 13 years ago.

Surviving are a son, Clarence C. Garberich, at home, two brothers, C. A. Castle of Galion and J. F. Castle of Cleveland, and a sister, Mrs. Zoa Fitzer of Detroit.

ARSON CHARGED

Father of Seven Children Held For House Burning.

TIFFIN—(INS)—Benjamin F. Biller, 50, father of seven children, was arrested today on an arson indictment returned secretly last week by the Seneca county grand jury. He was accused of attempting to burn his own home.

Deputy Sheriff George Steinmetz said Biller was implicated by Franklin Clowser, 22, who allegedly confessed firing the house. Both men were held in default of bond.

Contractors to Start Laying Bricks on Fourth Street.

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company will start laying brick on West Fourth street tomorrow.

State highway officials said today that materials were on the job and it was likely that the contractor would begin work at North Diamond street and move west.

Workmen today were cleaning the debris from the roadway and preparing for the laying of the sand cushion, while another crew was pouring concrete at the Mulberry street intersection.

It is expected that it will take about 10 days to put down the brick in the three-block section, officials said.

With the construction of curbs in the Main street-Diamond street section completed today workmen will move into the Main street-Walnut block tomorrow.

Meanwhile Fourth street merchants will meet tonight at the Moose hall to complete plans for staging a street fair when the project is completed.

The Shame Of Ohio Highways Under Bricker

Do you remember the fine condition of the State roads, when Martin L. Davey was Governor? Repairs were made promptly. Weeds and grass were kept mowed. Detours were the least inconvenient. There were no bad holes and bumps, or dangerous edges. Snow was removed as fast as it fell. Icy places were covered promptly with sand or cinders. Muddy water was not allowed to stand on pavements. The highways of Ohio were maintained in fine condition, under Davey.

Martin L. Davey

Well, suppose you had in your town a fine, smooth-running factory, and a new president were elected. Suppose that the first thing he did was to fire all the competent and experienced employees, who know how to use the expensive machinery, and how to turn out good production at low cost. Wouldn't you think that new president was crazy? That's just what Bricker did to the State Highway Department as soon as he became Governor. He fired all the experienced help, including many hundreds who had been under Civil Service for years. He made the sanctimonious claim that this was done for purposes of economy and efficiency.

What hypocrisy! Almost immediately he hired a flock of new employees, Bricker politicians, who did not know any more about highway maintenance than an Eskimo knows about raising bananas.

The result has been tragic. The State roads of Ohio have never been in such terrible condition as they are now. Thousands of miles are full of holes and ruts and bumps. The edges are going to pieces. Grass and weeds have not been mowed, until it was too late. Many accidents have resulted.

The damage to motor vehicles from bad roads has been terrific, and the patience of the public is near the exhaustion point.

Bricker did not have the snow removed promptly. People had to plow through snow-drifts if they could. Travel was slow, and dangerous, and costly.

The icy places were not covered with sand or cinders. They were dangerous in the extreme. More accidents happened from this neglect in the last two winters, than in any ten-year period preceding.

Bricker allowed the snow to remain on the highways and melt where it stood. Motorists had to plow through frequent puddles of muddy water, at great expense and danger.

The standing water seeped down under the pavements—and then it froze. The pavements heaved up from the freezing, on hundreds of miles of Ohio roads. The damage resulting from this neglect has run into many millions of dollars—and you pay for Bricker's neglect.

The cement trust has the present State Highway Department by the throat. Nearly everything is cement, in spite of the fact that Ohio produces practically all kinds of road-building materials and equipment. The Bricker administration has gone wild on building short stretches of terribly expensive pavements, a few miles here and there. These fancy jobs cost from $100,000.00 to nearly $500,000.00 per mile. What a colossal waste!

Ohio has seventeen thousand miles of highways in the State system. Nearly all of this is being neglected under Bricker, while they revel in the luxury of a few expensive jobs.

What Ohio needs is a vast program of cheaper construction, with some reasonable exceptions, and a fine job of good maintenance, so that all may benefit.

MANSFIELD CHAPTER ARRANGES PROGRAMS

Constitution, Flag Day to Be Celebrated: Members Will Entertain Pilgrimage Girls at Spring Meeting.

PROBABLY this will be one of the most important years in a quarter of a century for the many patriotic organizations of the city, so with a thought to the seriousness of world conditions the Jared Mansfield chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution prepared their program for the fall and winter season.

The year will open with a Constitution day luncheon at 1:30 p. m. Sept. 17 at the Galion Country club with the Olentangy chapter serving as hostess. In the evening of the same day there will be a dinner with the Constitution chapter S. A. R. as guests. Loren E. Sauer will be the guest speaker.

On October 11 the club will have a dessert-luncheon at the Women's Club and a golden jubilee celebration with the past regents in charge of the sealed program, while in November the group will have an evening meeting with Mrs. W. H. Gifford talking on "The Public Schools — Yesterday and Today," and Miss Hazel Zellner speaking on "Our Flag."

On the afternoon of Dec. 6 the group will honor Mrs. W. K. Sterline, northwest district director, at a Christmas program in charge of Mrs. Paul Eliot. At the January evening meeting Miss Ruth Culbertson will give a book review, and the state conference delegates will be elected.

The February program will be based on the topics of "National Defense Through Patriotic Education" and "National Defense Committee." Delegates to the national congress will be selected at that time.

Jared Mansfield chapter will have a birthday tea on March 7 with Mrs. Herbert Krimendahl, state chairman for the advancement of American music, speaking on "The Romance of the Harp."

Guest Party.

Good citizenship pilgrimage girls will be the guests of honor at the April 4 meeting when Miss Henrietta Frank gives a paper on "Americanism" and Mrs. John Bristor has a program on "Short Biographies of American Women Composers."

The annual meeting will be held the evening of May 2 with reports of the national congress and election of officers on the slate, while the final meeting of the year will be a Flag day picnic June 14. The new officers will be installed at the last session.

Chapter officers include Mrs. Stanley A. Richardson, regent; Mrs. Brinkerhoff H. Spear, vice regent; Mrs. John T. Shook, chaplain; Mrs. Robert W. Jones, secretary; Mrs. Edwin L. Balyeat, treasurer; Miss Janette Martin, historian and librarian; Mrs. Kenneth Buhr, registrar, and Miss Zellner, guardian of the colors.

The board of management includes Mrs. Earl Paxton, Mrs. Harry L. Ackerman, Mrs. Frances Scattergood and Miss Claude Blake. Members of the ways and means committee are Mrs. Carl Spangler, Mrs. H. C. Brubaker and Mrs. Paul Ruckman, while Mrs. Spear heads the program committee. She is being assisted by Mrs. H. L. Creveling, Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. Paxton.

Local Committees.

Heads of local committees are as follows: Miss Frank, Americanism; Mrs. R. F. Miller, radio and motion picture; Mrs. Howard E. McClure, conservation; Miss Zellner, correct use of flag; Mrs. LeRoy Wittemire, D. A. R. magazine and D. A. R. news; Mrs. Thomas Banks, Ellis Island and manuals; Mrs. Florence Hughes, approved schools; Mrs. Sidney Palmer, historical research and genealogical records; Mrs. Bristor, advancement of American music; Mrs. A. C. Tuttle, national defense through patriotic education; Miss Elizabeth Ackerman, press relations; Mrs. Carl H. Henkel, D. A. R. museum; Miss Florence J. Shires, D. A. R. student loan fund; Mrs. Spear, good citizenship pilgrimage; Mrs. Carl Spangler, Ohio sales tax, and Mrs. W. E. Shane, war relief.

Bridal Couples Guests of Honor At Social Event

The long holiday week-end was marked by several post-nuptial events honoring recent Mansfield bridal couples. Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Boebel who were married Aug. 17 were honored with a miscellaneous shower at the bridegroom's parents' home on Graham road. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Boebel entertained 97.

Cards and games were the diversion of the evening. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Mary Volz and Mrs. Bessie Volz were in charge of arrangements for the affair.

MEET THURSDAY.

Members of the Willing Workers society of the Little Washington church will meet Thursday at the church for an all-day quilting and covered-dish dinner.

Wedded In Mid-August

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Miss Elaine Sue Karkehk by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Karkalik, 744 Bowman street. She became the bride of Anthony Keseros, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Keseros, 115 South Willis avenue, at Ashland, Ky., Aug. 17. The recent bride is pictured above. She and her husband were attended by Miss Daisy Bosco and Robert Gerell. Both Mr. and Mrs. Keseros are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school. He is employed at the Humphryes Manufacturing company, and she is employed in the office of the Central Fruit and Grocery company. Mr. and Mrs. Keseros are now at home with the bride's parents at the Bowman street address.

Tourist Club Programs Out; Resume Activities Oct. 1

MRS. GRANT WARD, Mrs. Harry Bowers, and Mrs. B. W. Forkner, members of the program committee of the Tourist club, have issued the club booklets outlining the meetings for the coming year, which will begin on Oct. 1, when the latter two are hostesses. The historic origin of nursery rhymes will be presented at that time by Mrs. C. V. Gates. Then on Oct. 15, Mrs. Ward will be the hostess, and the program will be devoted to Latin America. At the final October meeting on the 29th, a discussion will be conducted on the Panama Canal, and Mrs. W. S. Valmore will serve as the hostess.

Electricity, printing, life in the southern United States and the consumer movement will all add interest to the meetings of Nov. 12 and 29, when Mrs. D. C. Cole and Mrs. J. W. Galbraith are the hostesses, respectively. The only meeting in December, on the 10th, will be given over to the spirit of Christmas, and Mrs. J. C. Stout has been named hostess.

There will be a guest-luncheon at the Women's Club on Jan. 7, when Mrs. Frank Hartman and Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer wil have charge of a sealed program. The immigrant problem will be the leading topic on Jan. 21, when Mrs. Frank Leavitt is the hostess, and a book review and a discussion of Bibical gardens has been planned for Feb. 4, with Mrs. A. E. Merkel acting as the hostess.

Influential writers will be the subject of a paper to be presented by Mrs. Stout on Feb. 18, when Mrs. Fred Berg entertains, and Mrs. J. W. Galbraith will speak on the business and pleasure of the Great Lakes at the meeting of March 4, with Mrs. R. W. Cellars in charge.

Another luncheon at the Women's Club will be held on March 18, followed by a musical program. Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. Sidney Palmer and Mrs. Dimon Herring. Mrs. A. C. Tuttle will serve as hostess on April 1, at which time Mrs. M. W. Wappner is planning to give a book review. Scientific achievements will be discussed at the last regular meeting of the year on April 15, with Mrs. W. L. Parkinson as hostess, and the club's annual picnic will be held in June.

Mrs. Parkinson is the club president, and her assisting officers are: Mrs. Herring, vice president; Mrs. H. L. Gilbert, secretary; and Mrs. Palmer, treasurer. Mrs. Berg, Mrs. Galbraith and Mrs. C. C. Wadsworth compose the membership committee.

In East

In the above photo is shown Mrs. Robert Pusey who was Miss Isabelle Schaloske before her marriage at 3:30 p. m. Saturday at the South Main Street Evangelical church. Mr. and Mrs. Pusey are now on an Eastern wedding trip. They will be at home at 162 Sturges avenue after Sept. 7.

Couple Wedded At Shiloh Church In Mid-Afternoon

The Mt. Hope Lutheran church at Shiloh was the scene of the marriage Sunday at 3 p. m. of Miss Elizabeth Adelaide Conboy, 110 Prospect street, and Doyt Stober, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stober, Shelby. Rev. F. W. Shirey, pastor, officiated.

Miss Conboy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Conboy, Boston, Mass., was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white silk jersey gown, and wore a fingertip length veil and carried a bouquet of gardenias and white roses. With her costume the bride wore her mother's pearls.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Conboy, who wore a peach taffeta dress with an overdraping of silk organdy and Spanish lace. Her veil was of blue tulle, and her flowers were yellow tea roses and blue delphinium. Clark Stober, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Harry C. Koozer played a half hour recital of nuptial music.

Following the wedding a reception was held for 90 guests at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Russell Reed, Prospect street. The house was decorated with white asters and gladioli, and the bride's table was decorated with a silver arch and miniature bells beneath which a tiny bride and groom were placed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stober are now on a wedding trip, and upon their return they will reside at Shelby. Mrs. Stober chose a brown travel tweed and brown accessories for her going away costume.

The bride is a graduate of Roslindale high school at Boston, and has been making her home here with her aunt. Mr. Stober was graduated from Ohio Northern university at Ada, and is employed at the Shelby Tube company.

The former Miss Conboy was feted last week at a party given by Mrs. Kooser, 557 Springmill street. The evening was spent socially, and in making a bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jackson, Ford apartments, have just returned from a 9,000 mile tour of the west, southwest, Mexico, Florida, and the southern states. While in Los Angeles, Calif., they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Gallagher, former Mansfielders.

Simple Ceremony Solemnized Last Saturday Morning

Mrs. Eloise S. Buchan, 28 Glenwood boulevard, has announced the marriage of her niece, Miss Martha Buchan, 105 West Luther place, to Henry E. Inscore, 185 Glessner avenue, son of Mrs. Ava Inscore. The ceremony was solemnized at 10:30 o'clock last Saturday morning before the altar of the First Congregational church, with Rev. Peter Young officiating.

The bride was attired in a wine velvet costume suit for her wedding, and with it she wore matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias and white roses. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mottayaw, and Mrs. Mottayaw wore a wine velvet ensemble with black accessories and corsage similar to the bride's.

Mr. and Mrs. Inscore took a short wedding trip and are now at home to friends at 413 Henry street. The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Inscore is employed by the Mansfield Rapid Transit company.

Mother, Sister Give Party For Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson were honored at a miscellaneous shower given Saturday night by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. C. Robinson, and sister, Mrs. M. E. Leiter. The affair was at the family home, 504 South Main street.

Bridge was played and prizes won by Mrs. C. F. Secrist, Mrs. A. L. Moury and Mrs. Floyd Maglott. The prizes were given to the guests of honor along with the shower gifts and a gift of linen and Fostoria ware from the hotesses. Mrs. Robinson was Miss Lillian Moury before her recent marriage.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"He says," I began slowly, "that he cannot give you his private number because there are reasons why he does not wish to talk to anyone over the telephone just now."

"But this is a matter of life or death, I tell you."

"He wants to see you," I said quickly. "He wishes you to come over here as soon as you possibly can get here, but if you come you must plan to stay at the farm two or three days, and have Otto remain here, also."

His gusty sigh of relief and gratification was plainly audible over the wire.

"That is what I hoped he would say," he commented. "Please tell him that Otto and I will be at the farmhouse within the hour, prepared to stay as long as we are needed."

"Father will be glad to hear that," I told him. "I will tell him at once. Good-bye!"

"Au revoir," he answered. I hurried upstairs to give my father his message.

He was not alone. My husband and Lillian's were deep in consultation with him, but I knew that my father would not object to my delivering the message where they could hear it, and I made my reports as brief as possible.

I guessed that my father was gratified at Philip Veritzen's prompt acquiescence in his request, but his face betrayed no emotion of any kind. Harry Underwood and Dicky, however, were distinctly mirthful over the great impresario's frank gratification in becoming a resident of the farmhouse.

"Ain't love wonderful?" Harry Underwood drawled.

"All that, and then some," my husband supplemented. "But then, you can't blame the old peacock for wanting to strike an attitude defending his 'qveen.'"

"I may be mistaken," my father said judicially, "but I do not think he was thinking primarily of his royal fiancee when he telephoned Margaret. What was your impression, Daughter?"

I already had given him my reaction to Philip Veritzen's tense and explosive attitude over the telephone, but I saw that for some reason he wished me to repeat the conversation again for the benefit of Dicky and Harry.

"I never have seen him more perturbed," I said. "He usually is so poised, so—"

"Shall we say 'smugly arrogant?'" Dicky interposed with a grin.

"Whatever you please," I answered, demurely. "But whatever you call his usual pose—".

" 'Pose' is the right word, darling," Dicky said, then made quick apology to my father.

"I'm sorry, Dad!" he said. "I shouldn't take up valuable time this way, but I sort of have a brain wave every time I think of that old buzzard, and—"

"You are pardoned," my father said with the wraith of a smile curving his own lips. "Indeed, I am not exceedingly keen about Mr. Philip Veritzen myself, but—I believe that his proposed visit may result in some slight advantage to us. At any rate, if he is here, we shall be sure of his whereabouts, his safety, and—that he is not getting into mischief."

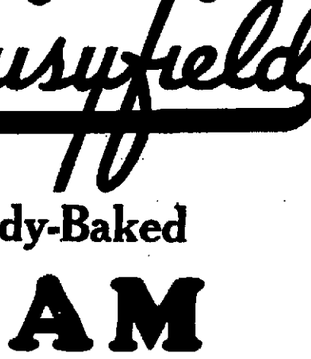
"The Authority on Authorities"

VALUE OF EVEN TRUMPS

AN EVENLY balanced holding—the same number of cards of a particular suit in your own hand and the dummy—is of no value as a means of obtaining discards if some other suit is the trump. But it makes the best of all kinds of trump suit, if you can have an unbalanced suit on the side. The unbalanced side suit gives you a means of discarding odds and ends of losers in the other two suits.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass

That bidding went on at the only table in a duplicate where the slam was successfully negotiated, with the exception of one table where 6-Hearts was the contract and it was made because of the lucky lead of the club A. That lead enabled the declarer to ruff the A and later discard a diamond loser on the club K. But with any other lead, the contract is beaten because South has no way, when playing at hearts, to get rid of his diamond losers.

Where the side reached 6-Spades as above, there was no difficulty at all to the play. After dropping trumps, South runs his hearts and discards all of North's diamonds, then ruffs one of South's losing diamonds with the single trump remaining in dummy.

The funniest bidding went as above to a certain point. South's 4-Spades, after bidding hearts twice was meant to show his 6-4 distribution. But North thought the 4-Spades was a mere ace-showing cue-bid, so returned to hearts.

Peculiarly, if North had tried the crazy bid of 6-No Trumps, to shoot for a top, he probably would have made it, since East would have been likely to lead a club, thereby setting up the club K for the twelfth trick. The only slam made on merit strictly, however, is in spades.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If North on this deal bids 1-Heart and South 2-Diamonds, what should West do and why?

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, September 4.

An interesting and progressive state of affairs is the augury for this day, according to the predominant planetary aspects. The mentality will be highly stimulated to see quick ways and means for putting important movements into operation. High pressure plans and programs are more than likely to have appeal to big business heads, with funds for promoting clever propositions available. Some small changes may be necessary. It is admonished to be cautious with strangers. In the private life romance looms.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a very lively, progressive and happy year, with important developments in both private and business life. The mind will be particularly astute and keyed up to propositions of magnitude. High-pressure salesmanship is bound to enlist ready support of capital for promotion, with the hearty cooperation of those in power and position.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with mentality which it may apply either to business or to any number of creative forms, professionally or intellectually. It will be resourceful and enterprising. It might lean toward dramatic art.

Yankee Bogyman Troubles Cleveland's Day of Rest

Tribe Drops 2 Tilts

Harder and Allen Victims of Browns' Attack; Feller to Hurl Wednesday.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Yankee bogymen troubled the Cleveland Indians' day of rest today as they tried to forget the Labor day double licking administered here by the St. Louis "spoilers."

The Tribesmen face a three-game series at Detroit starting tomorrow but with plenty of over-the-shoulder glances New York way, because the Yanks and Tigers now are both within three and a half games of the leaders.

In fact New York is actually ahead of Detroit by a fraction of a percentage point following the Labor day proceedings which saw the Tigers whipped twice while the Yanks split a doubleheader.

After the Cleveland-St. Louis doubleheader the crowd of 52,491 fans trudged home with the sad expressions of a refugee band, for their favorites were on the short end of 2-to-1 and 3-to-0 scores.

Victors in the tight pitchers' battles were Vernon Kennedy and Elden Auker, ever thorns in the Indians' sides. Mel Harder and Johnny Allen have seldom pitched better games for Cleveland but as Allen said, "You can't win without runs." Kennedy got three of the six hits Mel Harder gave out.

In the second game Auker let the Tribe have only one hit in six innings. The Indians threatened in the seventh and eighth but were tagged out at the plate both times.

Allen shut out the Browns with four hits through eight innings but they broke loose in the ninth.

"One bad pitch cost me that game," said Johnny Allen. "In the ninth I was getting Joe Grace on a change of pace. But a pitch broke inside and he tagged it for his triple. My arm felt better than it has any time this season."

Bob Feller and Schoolboy Rowe are scheduled to open the Detroit series. Al Smith and Tommy Bridges are to be Thursday's opponents. Mel Harder and Buck Newsom probably will wind up the series.

American League Heading For Its Wildest Windup

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

THE American League is heading for its wildest windup in modern history. The big Labor Day blow off, which incidentally brought out 264,000 fans—173,000 in American League parks—just about raised everybody's temperature to the boiling point.

* * *

Both the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers dropped double-headers while the New York Yankees split with the Philadlphia Athletics before 69,940 fans at Yankee Stadium.

The world champions thus moved into second place by a slender percentage margin, .5634 to .5625, over the Detroit Tigers while the lead of the Indians over each now is 3½ games.

The National League, which usually stages the big September show, already has virtually awarded the championship to the Cincinnati Reds for another term.

The fact that the Yankees' winning streak finally was sliced at eight games may have furnished some encouragement to their rivals. With Lefty Marius Russo pitching five-hit ball they had no trouble taking the opener from the A's 6-3, but they couldn't do anything with the "slider" of Johnny Babich in the nightcap and were shutout 3-0 on five hits.

Cleveland's collapse was another scalp to the credit of the St. Louis Browns, who have made life miserable for every club in the first division. Vernon Kennedy held the Indians to seven hits in the opener and rapped out three himself to lead the Browns to a 2-1 triumph. In the nightcap Elden Auker submarine-balled a 3-0 shutout.

The Tigers met the same fate at Chicago. Julius Solters broke up the first game with a single in the eighth for a 2-1 decision. Rigney shut them out 4-0 in the second game with just two hits.

The most astounding pitching duel of the day, however, was a 13-inning struggle between old Lefty Grove of the Boston Red Sox and young Sid Hudson of the Washington Senators. Youth finally prevailed when Rookie Jack Sanford singled across a run in the 13th to win 1-0 for Washington. The Senators won the second game 5-4 in six innings.

Paul Derringer got his 18th victory by holding the St. Louis Cardinals to five hits as the Cincinnati Reds captured the first game of their doubleheader 2-1. The Cards managed to hang onto third place by taking the nightcap 7-1.

The Boston Bees squeezed out a 7-6 verdict over the Brooklyn Dodgers in an 11-inning first game, but Brooklyn bagged the second 6-2.

* * *

The Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Chicago Cubs 5-2 for Rip Sewell's 13th triumph, but dropped the nightcap 7-1. The Phillies won 11-2 and 6-5 from the New York Giants.

Mansfield Tygers Open Grid Practice Sessions.

Some 80 enthusiastic youngsters moved in on the practice field today to officially open the 1940 Mansfield high Tyger football workouts. Coach Paul Snyder will work the boys in morning and afternoon sessions in an effort to have them in top shape for the opener against Akron West under the lights Sept. 13. Only three experienced veterans return to form the backbone of the Tyger combine.

Merchants Are Beaten

Mansfield Girls Drop 6-1 Decision to Rivals.

After winning the state girls' softball tournament in Toledo, Sunday, the Mansfield Merchants girls' softball team had a let down yesterday when they bowed to the Koch Furnitures of Cleveland at New London.

The Cleveland combine defeated the Merchants 6 to 1, in a game played as part of a Labor day program sponsored by New London merchants.

Errors paved the way for the Merchants defeat. Three errors and two hits gave the furniture girls three runs in the third inning, and one hit aided by two more errors gave them three more tallies in the seventh and final frame.

The Merchants scored their lone run in the fifth frame on a hit and an error. Shorick working on the mound for the Cleveland team struck out 10 Merchant girls, gave up only five hits and struck out two, while the Furnitures were collecting six hits off the pitching of Frances Clark.

* * *

The Merchants defeated the North Ridgeville Bittinger Funeral Home girls 3 to 2 in Toledo Sunday to take the state championship. Both the Merchants and Koch Furniture teams will take part in the national softball tournament in Detroit. About 8,000 persons attended the Labor Day celebration.

LUCAS MERCHANTS DIVIDE BASEBALL CONTESTS

The Lucas Merchants baseball team propped a 6 to 5 game to Hanover in a Labor Day attraction yesterday at Lucas. Oswalt on the mound for Lucas gave up nine hits while the Merchants collected 10 hits off Mills and Nethers.

Sunday the Merchants defeated Bellville 2 to 1 in a game played at Lucas. Diehl the Merchants' pitcher fanned 12 batsmen and gave up five hits, and Leechy and Martin the Bellville pitchers gave up six hits and struck out two. Sunday the Merchants travel to New London to take on the New London team. Sept. 15, 22 and 29 are open dates for the Merchants and anyone wishing to schedule games with the team should contact Walter Pritchard at Lucas.

Automotive Supply Semi-Pro Gridders Hold Daily Workouts

STILL seeking additional players, the Mansfield Automotive Supply semi-pro football machine started daily workouts at Davey field today.

Coach Earl McMullen, faced with a schedule which includes games with the Akron Awnings and Shreveport, Pa. club, will hold sessions daily at 6 p. m.

Any player wishing a trial with the Supplies is requested to report to McMullen at the field any night this week. The Mansfield team will launch its season in about two weeks, Fred Rizzo, business manager, stated today.

Braves Annex Games

Murphy and Patterson Stop Fremont in Games at Fairground.

THE Mansfield Braves are riding along on a seven-game winning streak today—their longest of the season.

By registering a double victory over Fremont before some 700 spectators at the Fairground last night, the Braves pulled above the .500 per cent mark in the Ohio State league standings for the first time in more than a month. Mansfield won the games 7-3 and 5-3.

In both contests the Braves forged into the lead in the early frames and never trailed.

Mansfield treks to Fostoria for its last game in the Red Birds' park this season and comes back to the Fair park to tangle with Fostoria Wednesday night.

Patterson, a young righthander hailing from Detroit, handled the mound duties in th initial contest and limited the Green Sox to seven hit, while Murphy, former Loudonville Indians' hurler, toiled in the nightcap and scattered 10 bingles.

Fremont secured a 3-1 lead in the third inning of the opener, but Mansfield erased the advantage with three runs in the third and iced the affray with a pair of tallies in the fourth.

Harry Seigbert provided the spark that set the Braves into motion in the second tussle. Behind, 1 to 0, going into the last of the second, Harry cracked out a triple with the bases loaded to hand Mansfield a lead that was never relinquished. The Braves finished their scoring with two more markers in the fourth.

The Green Sox got to Murphy for two runs in the fifth, but couldn't do any further damage. Seigbert led the Braves in the opener with three singles, while Herb Woodten pounded out a double and single in the second setto.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

HEROES—Danny Litwhiler, Phillies rookie who collected six hits including a homer with the bases loaded as Philadelphia defeated New York twice. Johnny Rigney, White Sox who shut out the Tigers on two hits. Johnny Babich, Athletics who shut out the Yankees thereby halting their eight-game winning streak.

GOATS — Lou Boudreau, Indians whose error set the stage for the Browns to score the winning run in the first game of a doubleheader. Bob Garms, Pirates who fumbled Hank Leiber's drive and allowed the Cubs to score what later proved to be the winning runs in the second game of a doubleheader.

Vin Malaska Upsets Zediker To Win Coolridge Golf Title

STAGING a major upset in Mansfield golf circles, Vin Malaska stopped Gene Zediker, defending champion, 5 and 3, yesterday to win the Coolridge Country club tournament title.

Malaska forged ahead in the opening round and successfully turned back every bid made by Zediker. A nifty 70 on the first 18 holes gave Malaska a 3 up lead as the golfers teed off for the afternoon session.

It was Malaska's first major championship and he scored his win over one of this district's top-notch shotmakers in taking the crown.

O. S. R., Massillon Aces Fan 24: Inmates Win.

The Ohio State Reformatory baseball team defeated the Massillonians of Massillon 6 to 2 in a game played at the Reformatory yesterday.

Featuring the game was the pitching of the two moundsmen, Adams for the inmates and Wilhelm for the Massillonians, who struck out a total of 24 batters. Adams' strike-out record was 14 and Wilhelm struck out 10. Adams gave up six hits and walked two, while Wilhelm allowed eight safeties and walked 5.

* * *

The O. S. R. combine held a 2-0 lead going into the fourth inning, when the Massillonians pushed one run across the plate. The inmates boosted their lead to 5 to 1 in the sixth frame, and added their final tally in the eighth. The Massillon combine scored its final run in the ninth.

Cincinnati Divides Tilts With St. Louis Cardinals

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have removed a great deal of the uncertainty from the National league pennant race with a substantial lead but they would be just as happy if they were assured of the outcome of today's game and the four remaining to be played later in the season with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Rhinelanders, who chose Johnny Hutchings for mound duty against Fiddler Bill McGee of the Cards, had little complaint, taking the race as a whole, but the gas house gang has been something of a thorn in their sides.

The Reds lead the Cardinals by only one game in the season's encounters. Yesterday the league leaders split a twin bill with St. Louis, winning the first game 2-1 but dropping the nightcap 7-4.

Lady luck was in their corner as they grabbed the fun spelling victory in the opener, which was a hurling duel between Paul Derringer for the Reds and the Cards Mort Cooper.

All of the scoring was done in the fifth inning. St Louis broke the ice with a run on three hits and an error.

When the Reds tallied their two Werber hit safely, stopped at second on Mike McCormick's single to left and scored on Frank McCormick's single.

Jimmy Ripple was passed, loading the bases, before Cooper committed his fatal balk. The Reds counted six hits.

Cincinnati scored two runs on four singles in the first inning of the afterpiece but the Cardinals evened the count in the second round. The Reds momentarily recaptured the lead in the same stanza with a run on two singles and Bill Werber's daring base running. St. Louis came back to score twice in the fourth and counted three runs in the eighth on a walk, three singles and a double steal.

Lon Warneke, who permitted 12 hits, allowed the Reds to single in another run in the ninth.

The Rhinelanders remained seven and one-half games ahead of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers, who also divided a double header.

Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati catcher, was on the sidelines as the result of a badly bruised little finger on his left hand. Dr. Richard Rhode, club trainer, said he was going to have it x-rayed today as a precautionary measure.

* * *

Catcher Jimmy Wilson, who took over Lombardi's duties in yesterday's opener, was first to call the turn on Cooper's balk which caused considerable controversy but brought in the tally necessary for a Cincinnati victory.

Moorhead Wins Third Straight Westbrook Title

Youthful Shotmaker Scores Impressive 8 and 7 Triumph Over Drummond.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BOBBY MOORHEAD holds an honor today no other Westbrook Country club member ever attained—his third straight club golf championship.

Performing like a veteran, the youthful amateur shotmaker exploded powerful tee shots and accurate approaches to smash out an impressive 8 and 7 triumph over Burleigh Drummond in the finals yesterday before a gallery estimated at 150.

Drummond, who pulled the biggest upset of the tournament by eliminating Bill Black, jr., in a semi-final tussle Saturday, fought an uphill battle all the way, but couldn't keep up the hectic pace.

Collecting a five on the No. 1 hole, Drummond secured an early advantage only to see Moorhead even the match on the next hole. That was the last time Drummond held the edge for Bobby moved ahead on No. 6 and never trailed.

Banging out a one-over-par 37 for the first nine while Drummond was taking a 40, Moorhead secured a three-up lead. He added another hole on the second nine and started the afternoon round sporting a 4 up advantage.

From there on in it was all Moorhead. He won four holes on the first nine and ended the match on the 11th hole. It was the most impressive triumph registered in the finals in several years. Moorhead scored four "birdies."

P. H. Haley walked off with title honors in the second flight by decisioning Dr. D. M. Leuthner, 2 and 1, while Henry Talmage scored a 3 and 2 win over Paul F. Cropper to cop the crown in the third flight, and the fourth flight champion is Jim McConnell, who stopped Jack Berno 5 and 3 in the finals.

* * *

E. S. Weller, Westbrook tournament chairman, stated today that the tourney prizes will be presented the champions at a stag dinner at the club, Friday, Sept. 13. Motion pictures of the golfers during their final matches will be shown at the dinner.

Two Golf Teams Tie For Mixed Two-Ball Tourney.

Two teams tied for the two-ball foursome tournament staged yesterday at the Westbrook Country club. They were Mrs. Charles Hoffman and Dick Schettler and Mrs. H. B. Donley and Dr. Frank Maxwell each with 89. The teams of Mrs. A. H. Nevis and M. W. Hieber and Mrs. Frank Maxwell and H. B. Donley tied for second with 90 and Mrs. E. R. Hartman and A. J. Reynolds placed third with 88. Mrs. A. J. Reynolds and E. R. Hartman won low gross with 90, Mrs. R. E. Riley and H. R. Cummins took high gross with 117.

Nelson Edges Snead In PGA Tourney Finals

Toledo Pro Wins Deciding Match in Last Hole.

HERSHEY, Pa.—(AP)—Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., today joined the select handful of professional golfers who have won both the medal and the match play championships of the United States and once again the triumph was at the expense of Sam Snead, the luckless.

Nelson, open king in 1939, won the P. G. A. title for the first time yesterday. He defeated Snead by one hole in a rousing 36-hole final that wound up in a blaze of brilliant shots.

Snead is still wondering how he lost this one. The West Virginia slugger has dropped a lot of big tournaments before by folding up at critical moments but this time it was different.

Sammy threw a final round 68, five under par, at Nelson and it didn't do him any good. Said Sam sadly:

"I don't know what I have to do to crash in there. I guess I'll just never win a big one."

Nelson simply outplayed Snead at the important time. He had the championship almost on ice for a time, hovering around a two or three hole advantage, and then in the home stretch got caught in Snead's final and gallant try.

LOOKING AHEAD AT NEW YEAR IN WORLD WAR II

Britain Faces Battle to Save Island and Empire From Foe's Attacks.

If, however, the Germans could strike with superior air forces from three sides—France, Norway and Ireland—at once, they might divide the British air power and thus maintain dominance in the skies to protect landings and supply lines.

Thus, a Nazi move in the direction of Ireland would indicate a change in the trend of war as sensational as the German occupation of Scandinavia.

But again the question of air power would be of perhaps decisive importance. So far, German attempts to nullify the British navy with aerial power have been indecisive and the Nazi counter-blockade of Britain only partly effective. Irish bases for airplanes and U-boats would permit tightening of the blockade but it could be complete only if air mastery were established.

The second vital theater of war against the British empire is:

The Battle of the Suez Canal.

The keys to Italy's attack on the British empire in north Africa are the Suez canal and, to a lesser extent, Gibraltar. Fascist success would mean the cutting of Britain's empire jugular vein. Every move in Premier Benito Mussolini's bid for a new Roman empire around the Mediterranean must be judged by its effect on those two strongholds, both of which have been bombed by Italian planes.

Most important front in north Africa runs along the frontier of Libya and Egypt, where Italian armies have made vast preparations for an offensive that would be designed to gain control of the Suez canal and thus isolate British forces in the Near East and in Africa while establishing Italian communications to east Africa, including Ethiopia and captured British Somaliland.

Military experts believe that the Fascist offensive in Africa will be on several fronts (and may include a move against Greece) and will be co-ordinated with the most intense phase of German attack on Great Britain. In addition to the Libyan front, Italian forces would be expected to move against the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan in a drive around Egypt to Ethiopia and to advance farther into British Kenya colony, a rich field to the south.

The British port of Aden, opposite Somaliland, presumably would be a prime Fascist objective (especially for air attack) not only because of its strategic importance along the sea way to Suez but because it would give Mussolini a foe-hold in Asia and further his dream of becoming protector of Islam.

Success or failure of the war program of the Axis powers both in Europe and in Africa will depend on the ability of the British to hold their ground until they can counter-attack (especially in the air) in great force and until the effects of naval blockade pinch the Nazi-Fascist war machine, probably a year hence.

British counter-bombardment so far has been steady but on a small scale compared to the German mass attacks on Britain. Its effectiveness is disputed, but British officials insist that German supplies have been vastly reduced and that synthetic gasoline production in the reich has been cut 40 per cent. When and if these British attacks on Germany and Italy, as well as in Libya, increase in range and intensity the real struggle to seize the offensive will be under way.

Greece already has felt the threat of Italian invasion from Albania. If the Fascists seek to seize vital Greek naval bases, Britain almost certainly will be fighting in the Aegean sea and attempting to bring into effect the British-Turkish mutual air pact in the eastern Mediterranean.

Such a move might easily set off a long train of explosions in the Balkans; explosions which the Axis powers are struggling to prevent. Satellite states such as Hungary and Rumania can be controlled by force or threat of force, but it is in Axis relations with Soviet Russia that the real answer to control of the Balkans must be sought.

Outwardly at least there have been signs of friendly relations between Germany and the Soviets, but Moscow has made clear a determination to offset every Axis gain in the southeast by a counter-move to bolster Russia's defensive position.

If Turkey goes to the aid of Britain and Greece in the eastern Mediterranean the whole question of Balkan control—especially control of the Dardanelles which are vital to the Soviets—will be opened up and Russia's position might drastically affect or decide the outcome of the war.

Two-thirds of the entire population of Australia has savings accounts of about $1,000 per capita.

Vets' New Executive Group

The election of five new members of the executive board of the 37th Division of the A. E. F. was held yesterday. The new members are shown in the top photo. Seated left to right, they are Albert L. Allen, Mansfield, Lloyd Tefft, Cleveland, and W. S. Hart, of Cleveland. Standing are Ross Burleigh, Springfield and Roy F. Halbach, Toledo. In the bottom photo is Harold E. Roth, of Cincinnati, new president of the division.

umn activities be run to the earth, punished with severe penalties and measures be taken to forever eradicate all traitorous and subversive conduct from the United States of America."

When Capt. Heintz finished the reading of the document, loud cheers and shouts of approval arose from the assembled veterans, and the resolution went on record without a dissenting vote.

It was also voted that a copy of the resolution be sent to President Roosevelt, congressmen from Ohio, and to the United States senate.

Following the report of the resolutions committee, officers for the year 1941 were elected.

Harold O. Roth, Cincinnati, was elected president; Warren D. Williams, Toledo, vice president; Kenneth Little, Columbus, treasurer; and Rev. William Murphy, Baltimore, Md., chaplain.

In the voting for executive committee posts, Capt. Albert A. Allen, Mansfield, commander of old Company M, received the most votes. Others elected to the committee were: Lloyd Tefft, Cleveland; W. S. Hart, Cleveland; Ross Burleigh, Springfield; and Ray F. Halback, Toledo.

In debate over the "reunion city" for 1941, Cleveland won out by a substantial margin. Columbus was next in line, with Springfield one of the leading contenders.

During the meeting the veterans were visited by three members of the Women's Relief Corps of the Grand Army, who presented a gift of flowers.

Mrs. Della Cochran spoke for the relief corp, pledging friendship to the World war veterans on behalf of the Civil war organization. She was attended by Miss Mary Beilstein and Mrs. Jane Beelman.

A total of 2109 veterans were registered for the convention. It was the largest registration ever recorded in the history of the organization.

From the floor, throughout the meeting, came praises of Mansfield as the ideal reunion city. It was the general opinion of all veterans that one of the best times in the history of the organization was had here.

Meanwhile, across the street in Memorial hall the "Ladies of the 37th" held their meeting.

Mrs. R. D. Blackburn, Columbus, was elected president; Mrs. Charles Bell, Dayton, vice president; and Mrs. Maurice Comer, Lima, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the executive committee elected were: Mrs. Ray Middleton, Dayton, for three years; Mrs. Harvey Oxley and Mrs. Robert Hetzel, Cincinnati.

Flowers were to be presented to Mrs. Letha Hageman, president of the Albert C. Gerke chapter of the "Ladies of the 37th" of Mansfield, by that group for her outstanding service to the organization.

NAZI RAIDS ON ISLE FAIL TO SET BLOCKADE

War Correspondent Declares Ports Hardly Damaged by German Bombs.

The principal ports continue to function despite German boasts they have knocked out Portsmouth and Southampton.

Nearly all the damage done along this coast has been done by day raiders and, in turn, 90 per cent of their shots seem unaimed and indiscriminate.

The most impressive sight of the tour was Ramsgate, a seaside resort innocent of any military objective, but victim of the war's worst assault by air.

The horrifying swiftness of air assault was never better demonstrated. In four and one half minutes, 50 German bombers dropped 500 one-hundred-and-ten-pound bombs indiscriminately upon the residence district of Ramsgate. They destroyed entirely or partially 1,222 houses, nearly all homes of workers and small shop keepers.

This is the largest number of houses ever destroyed in any single air raid anywhere in history, although greater monetary damage was done by Germans in Rotterdam's business center and Warsaw suffered more in a series of raids.

Despite the terrific destruction not more than 28 persons were killed and 45 injured.

Out of Ramsgate's normal 36,000 population, only 15,000 remain. The others have voluntarily gone away.

Before Ramsgate we visited Margate, untouched for three weeks, and damaged only trivially.

Dover is almost completely normal. Its total dead during the entire raids number six and the total material losses to a dozen houses, bombed and shelled, is under $50,000.

Folkstone, suffered only slightly more. Six Folkstone citizens were killed and 150 houses destroyed and damaged but 14,000 of its 47,000 people are carrying on.

At the tiny hamlet of Dymchurch one bomb killed an 84-year-old man, his 82-year-old wife, and one 14-year-old boy.

Winchelsea, seat of the Norman church 1,000 years ago, is untouched.

Hastings, scene of the battle of "1066 and all of that," has had a bare half dozen in this war, but just outside Hastings we ran under the greatest air battle your correspondent ever witnessed.

More than 100 German bombers, escorted by fighters in formations like Canadian geese, flew like silver leaves floating 20,000 feet above us, their wings gleaming against a cobalt blue sky.

Suddenly, 30 Hurricanes and Spitfires dived from the clouds and struck the Germans at right angles in mid-formation. The Germans broke formation and scattered and now they fought all over the sky.

For over 50 miles along the coast we motored beneath this epic battle. At Bexhill-on-Sea business was almost as in peacetime with no dead and no bombing.

Famous Brighton is the most normal of all. Its total loss is four killed, 12 wounded, 12 houses damaged in six air raids in which 40 bombs were dropped.

Portsmouth suffered the largest loss of life having around 100 deaths from a single raid. Here the Germans unloaded their bombs without aiming and had devilish luck in making direct hits upon a movie theatre and upon an ill-protected surface air raid shelter crowded with women and children.

The Portsmouth harbor, principal objective of German raids, hasn't been impeded the least nor any of its facilities knocked out.

Nowhere on the whole tour could I find any important damage to any important ports. Ninety-eight per cent of all the damage has been done to innocent civilians and their property.

The Germans have failed to blockade Britain.

COUPLE WED IN SHELBY CHURCH

SHELBY—In a late afternoon ceremony at 5:30 p. m. Saturday, Miss Doris Virginia Morrow of Shelby and Nelson Floyd Robinson of Sandusky were united in marriage at the parsonage of the United Brethren church here.

Rev. J. C. Searle, pastor of the church, performed the single ring ceremony before immediate members of the families. Attending the couple were Miss Mary Ellen Gray of Toledo, a cousin of the bride, and Paul Morrow of Shelby, brother of the bride.

THEATERS

Popular Novel.

Returning to the popular literature of many decades for the source of their second production, Gene Towne and Graham Baker selected "Tom Brown's School Days," which comes to the Madison Wednesday. It is a portrait of English school life. Freddie Bartholomew is seen as East, and Jimmy Lydon has the Tom Brown title role. Josephine Hutchinson and Sir Cedric Hardwicke have lead portrayals. The co-feature is "Gambling on the High Seas," featuring Wayne Morris.

Daring Sea Scenes.

"The Sea Hawk" will be continued through Thursday at the Ohio, with Errol Flynn and Brenda Marshall in the featured roles. Mighty sea battles, daring duels, spectacular scenes in the Elizabethan court are only a few of the ingredients. Claude Rains, Donald Crisp, Alan Hale and Una O'Connor are also in the production.

Lavish Musical.

Broadway in the gay, romantic days when Victor Herbert ruled the show world and his immortal melodies were on the lips of everyone forms the setting for the lavish musical romance "The Great Victor Herbert," which comes Wednesday to the Ritz. It tells the story of a young actor and actress of the gay days who found fame as the stars of Herbert's operettas and happiness in their lasting friendship with the composer. The co-feature is "Free, Blond and 21."

From Across Tracks.

Depicting the hectic adventures of a young shanty-town girl from "across the track," "Primrose Path," which is showing at the Park, stars Ginger Rogers and Joel McCrea in a human drama. With sympathy the story reveals the girl's efforts to win happiness for herself as she endures the taunts of more fortunate youngsters. The co-feature is "Earl of Puddlestone."

Steels Take Early Leadership; Dealings, However, Slow Down After Opening.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks resumed their forward job in today's market under leadership of steels.

After a fairly active opening dealings slowed but gains of fractions to a point or so were well distributed near the second hour.

Brokerage customers came back from their lengthy weekend with the idea that buying time might be at hand, observers reported. Continuance of the Anglo-German series of air duels over both England and the Axis territory apparently revived hopes among some traders that British chances of success were brightening.

Boardrooms studied forecasts from trade quarters that business activity this month would rise moderately over that of August.

A constructive indicator was seen in the word from Detroit that this week will mark the end of the low-production changeover period for the motor manufacturers.

Attention was given the statement of Secretary of Labor Perkins disclosing an increase of more than 1,000,000 in non-argicultural employment in the last year. Further advances were expected as growing defense needs are filled.

DR. C. G. BROWN DIES AT HOME

Prominent Mansfield Physician Was Bedfast Three Weeks With Heart Ailment.

his internship, came to Mansfield to practice medicine in 1904.

He obtained his primary education in the public schools of Mansfield and Lexington, and was graduated from Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ill., before attending Jefferson Medical college.

Dr. Brown was a member of the Richland County Medical society, the Ohio State Medical Society and the American Medical association, and fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

He was a lifelong member of the United Presbyterian church.

Widely known throughout the state as a breeder of Guernsey cattle, he had for the past 12 years served as director of the Ohio Guernsey Breeders' association. He was also a member of the Mansfield Rotary club.

Besides his wife, Essie M. Brown, and son, Dr. Charles G. Brown, jr., he is survived by his sister, Miss Helen T. Brown, all of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 p. m. at the home, 190 Park avenue west, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Henry Ford, of the First United Presbyterian church, Rev. Ford will be assisted by Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Garnes, of St. Luke's Lutheran church. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

FLIER'S SON

Baby Given Name Picked By Airliner Crash Victim.

BEAVER, Pa.—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Moore, 25, yesterday gave birth to a son just 36 hours after her airman husband died in the crash of a transport plane in Virginia.

The boy—her first child—was named Donald Patrick Moore—the name chosen weeks ago by the 29-year-old husband, J. Paul Moore, co-pilot of the Pennsylvania Central airliner that carried 25 persons to death Saturday.

Four months ago Moore left his job in Nicaragua piloting on a freight line so his expected child might be born in the United States.

ACCIDENTS DOWN

SHELBY — Traffic accidents dropped to a new low for Shelby during August, police reports showed today. Only nine accidents were listed for August. July had 11 traffic accidents, listed, police said.

PAETZNICK AT SHELBY

SHELBY—Rev. M. P. Paetznick of Lucas, former assistant pastor of First Lutheran church here, was the guest teacher of the Men's Brotherhood class in that church Sunday morning.

FAIR OPENS

Annual Shelby Event Starts Wednesday Night.

SHELBY — Shelby Community Street fair will officially open at 8 p. m. Wednesday night when the first of the series of "free" acts to be given at the fair will be presented, C. L. Beal, concession superintendent, announced.

Some 50 rides, shows and concessions will be placed on Main street from Church street to Broadway avenue to form the fair's midway. Exhibits of farm products and machinery, baked goods, grain and corn will be placed along the street on tables.

The flower display will again be held in the show room of Bourgeois Motor sales. The only other exhibit to be placed in buildings will be the needlework display at city hall.

Never before in the history of the fair has such a variety of acts been purchased by the fair board to be put on as free acts at the fair as has been hired this year, Beal pointed out. Four different groups will put on acts at the fair this year.

Arkansas Posse Hunts Escaped Convicts With Hounds

DEPUTY KILLED BY FUGITIVES IN GUN BATTLE

Desperadoes Hold Two Girls as Hostages, Threaten to Kill Them.

(By United Press)

COLUMBIA, La. —A posse of sheriff's deputies and farmers resorted to bloodhounds and an airplane today to spot six escaped Arkansas convicts who shot their way out of an ambush near here and escaped after killing a deputy sheriff and threatening to kill two girl hostages.

Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff A. A. Coates of Caldwell Parish said the convicts were ambushed about two miles south of here at 12:15 a. m., by five officers when they stopped to fix a flat on their stolen automobile.

Special Deputy Sheriff F. C. Gartman, a 45-year-old Chevrolet dealer in Columbia, was killed in an exchange of shots and the convicts, with their hostages —two young girls and a young man—escaped into the thick underbrush, abandoning their car.

Coates said the officers held their fire when they first saw the men, because of the danger of hitting the three young persons.

"They turned their guns loose on us," he said, "hitting Gartman. Four or five bullets whined over my head."

Coates said he had checked with Little Rock authorities and was sure the men were part of the 36 who escaped from state prison farm at Gould yesterday.

The men kidnaped Voncille Williams, about 16, Gladys Diamond, 16, and Jerry Harrigal, 17, all members of Rayville, La., families, north of Rayville.

Previously, they had taken the automobile of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horsfall of Little Rock, Ark. The Horsfalls, who reported they were kidnaped when the fugitives took their car near Gould, were allowed to go free.

The group which fought near here this morning, had escaped with others in a mass break from the farm at Gould yesterday.

Two of another party of five which fought a battle with police officers at Garland City, in western Arkansas, late last night, were recaptured. More than 100 shots were fired, but no one was hurt. They also had two hostages.

At least 35 convicts, most of them serving long terms for crimes of violence, escaped from the prison farm near Gould yesterday after a gun fight in which a "trusty-guard" was killed and several convicts were wounded. Many of them were heavily armed. Prison authorities could not be sure of the exact number that got away.

Threatened Town Prays as Flood Menaces Big Dam

MILLVILLE, N. J. — (INS) — Faced with disaster all through the night, this busy factory town prayed with renewed hope today as the 73-year-old concrete dam at Union Lake withstood the peak pressure of the rampaging Maurice river.

Flood tide from the Sunday cloudburst which caused more than $5,000,000 damage and left 10,000 homeless throughout southern New Jersey was reached early today.

Then, slowly but steadily the flow of water over the dam receded. At dawn the water had dropped four inches.

During the hours of peril in this community of 18,000, eight state troopers stood guard with rocket flares atop the dam, which rises 80 feet from its base and holds back 6,000,000,000 gallons of water. At the first sign of a break the troopers planned to signal the populace, hundreds of whom had spent the night moving their possessions to higher ground.

Ohioans In House Stand Firm Against Draft

While local veterans were welcoming members of the 37th Division over the week-end at the annual reunion here, one Mansfield vet was being welcomed at another reunion in Detroit. He was County Engineer Howard Sword, who served overseas with the 16th Engineers for 22 months during the World war. And it was a real welcome that Sword received too, because most of his former buddies had not seen him for 21 years —since they were mustered out at Camp Custer in 1919. By coincidence, headquarters of the 16th Engineers reunion in Detroit was a hotel with the same name as the one used for headquarters locally —the Leland.

Many a motorist on Marion avenue, thinking perhaps that the Labor day week-end had proved too much for him, stopped to rub his eyes this morning when passing Wood street. For there, sauntering with great unconcern, was a man clad only in pajamas, house slippers, and dressing gown. Motorists, catching a glimpse of the sight, slowed up to make sure they saw right. All of which apparently made no difference to him at all. He just continued to amble along.

Mrs. Ethel Bowman, in charge of the obstetrics ward at General hospital, was pleased with herself and her staff today. During August 39 boys and 45 girls were born at the hospital for a total of 84, the largest number of babies ever born at the hospital for one month. In July 76 babies were born and that had been the busiest month in the history of the hospital until this month.

Oscar Bollman was still trying to get over his surprise when his family got home from a drive Sunday afternoon. He met them at the door with a copy of the Sunday News-Journal and pointed to a picture of President McKinley and members of his cabinet in a barouche as they attended the John Sherman funeral. Beside the carriage stood a 15-year-old lad with a bicycle. The boy was Bollman. He had forgotten about the picture but remembered the day very well.

CATCH THIEVES

Mansfield Officers Find Youths Burglarizing Home.

Captured by police yesterday evening while burglarizing a West Third street residence, two brothers, one 15 and the other 13, were held in jail today for questioning.

The boys were taken into custody about 6:30 p. m. by Patrolmen Paul Martin and William Colby, who said they found them looting the residence of Edward McNew, 87½ West Third street.

Police were called by an employe of the Colby and Earick garage when he observed the youths enter the house by the front door. Officers said the door was not locked.

Police records reveal that both have records and only recently returned from the Boy's Industrial school at Lancaster, from which they are on parole.

THOMAS NAMED TO STATE POST

Plymouth Pastor Elected to Office In Christian Endeavor.

Rev. James A. Thomas, pastor of the Plymouth and Rome Presbyterian churches, was elected secretary of the State Union of Christian Endeavor held at Columbus over the week-end.

Rev. Thomas will assume his new duties Nov. 15 at Dayton. He succeeds Glen Massman, who has served in that capacity for ten years.

Rev. Thomas is a native of Youngstown and a graduate of Wooster college. He attended the Western Seminary of Pittsburgh and has been one of the pastoral counselors of the Richland county Y. P. C. U. for the past year.

ASKS FOR BIDS ON ROAD JOB

Highway From Butler To Fredericktown to be Improved.

Bids will be received by the state highway department Sept. 20 for the improvement of Route 95 between Butler and Fredericktown, Dave C. Hess, Highway Engineer Murray D. Shaffer announced today.

Estimated to cost $46,260, the project in Richland and Knox counties calls for resurfacing the pavement to a width of 18 feet for a distance of 9.8 miles with bituminous material.

The contract is expected to be let immediately after bids are received and checked and specifies that the job must be completed by June 30, 1941.

STUDY SCHOOL AREA TRANSFER

County Superintendent and Shelby Head Confer on Ganges Proposal.

County School Superintendent Boyd Robinson and C. G. Keck, superintendent of the Shelby Schools, are conferring today at the county superintendent's office on the proposed transfer of Ganges school district to the Shelby district.

A petition signed by Ganges residents and requesting the transfer was tabled at a meeting of the county school board Saturday. Prior to his meeting with Keck, Robinson said he had no serious objections to the transfer, which would involve an area with a $28,000 tax valuation, provided certain agreements could be reached between Shelby and county school officials.

Robinson pointed out that the county had already hired a teacher for the Ganges school and that unless satisfactory arrangements could be made the transfer would mean that the county board would have to pay a teacher without a school.

He indicated that it might be possible to send Ganges high school students to Shelby this year, completing the transfer of elementary school pupils after the close of the 1940-41 school term. There are 28 elementary and 6 high school pupils in the Ganges district, Robinson said.

ROAD PROGRAM NEARS FINISH

Only 3 Miles of Work Remains On County Schedule.

Except for 3.56 miles on the Olivesburg-Adario road, the county's bituminous road surfacing program was complete today, the county engineer's office reported.

Black top has been laid on approximately 15 miles of road throughout the county and only finishing work on ditches and berm remained to be added. Hauling of stone, preparatory to laying the black top on the Olivesburg-Adario road, was expected to be completed this week.

Rain has delayed the road program considerably this year, the engineer's office said.

DETECTIVE MAGAZINE READER SPOTS FUGITIVE FROM LIMA

DETROIT — (AP) — The last of five men who escaped from Lima (O.) hospital for the criminal insane two years ago was behind bars today because a Detroit bowler reads detective stories and has a keen memory.

Police seized Marion B. Pierce, 43, at a downtown alley where he was employed as pinboy on a tip of a man who recognized him from a picture published in a detective story magazine.

Detective Thomas Packings said Pierce admitted he was one of the five whose escape spread terror in several midwestern cities. The quintet broke from the institution on New Year's day in 1939 carrying two razors and a hatchet.

Two of Pierce's companions were captured in Chicago last year.

William Blatz, 32, was seized after shooting a man in a tavern robbery. He was found insane by a jury and committed to an Illinois institution.

Frank Haines, 38, of Columbus, O., purported leader of the five, was arrested after shooting two persons in a tavern. One of the victims died and Haines was sentenced to life as a habitual criminal.

Russell Nuckels, 25, was captured in Cleveland the day after the escape. A week later he hung himself in his cell.

Willard Brucks, 34, of Highland county, O., was seized in Omaha, Neb., while robbing a national guard armory of pistols and ammunition.

Pierce was sentenced Dec. 5, 1923, to 10-20 years in the Ohio penitentiary for shooting a Cleveland policeman. Later he was transferred to Lima.

Haines was probably the most-widely sought of the five because of his boast to kill two Chicago policemen and his former wife. The three were kept under heavy guard for some time. Authorities said Haines vowed to slay the officers because they sent him to prison in 1931.

FUNERAL SET

Services for Alfred Schmidt, OSR Guard, to Be Wednesday.

Funeral services for Alfred E. Schmidt, 38, of 368 West Third street, Ohio State reformatory guard who was fatally wounded Sunday when a shotgun he was lowering from a wall tower at the prison accidentally discharged will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Finefrock Funeral home.

Rev. Martin Wappner, reformatory chaplain, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Born May 12, 1902 in Germany, Schmidt came to this country 17 years ago. For a number of years he was employed at Westinghouse's East Pittsburgh plant, coming to Mansfield in 1935. He was employed in the engineering department here until Feb. 1, 1938 when he was appointed teacher of engineering at the reformatory.

He is survived by his wife, Emma; a daughter, Emma Martha; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schmidt and a brother Heintz, all of Germany. He was a member of the G. B. U. of Mansfield.

Mr. Schmidt was wounded about 5:30 a. m. Sunday. He died in General hospital about 24 hours later.

MAJORITY DUE TO VOTE 'NO' ON CONSCRIPTION

15 of 24 Members Hold Service By Draft Should Be In 'Last Resort.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—An overwhelming majority of Ohio's 24 representatives intend to follow the example set by the state's senators in voting against conscription.

The Ohioans registered their sentiments as the house prepared to take up the draft bill passed by the senate with a controversial amendment involving in effect compulsory service by industry as well as men for national defense.

Only one Buckeye house member—Dow W. Harter (D)—indorsed conscription openly.

Rep. Michael Kirwan (D) said he would support the bill, but wants clergymen and ministerial students exempted.

Opposing conscription outright or contending that it would be undertaken only as a last resort after other means of raising an army had been tried and failed were these 15 members:

Hunter, Claypool, Secrest, Sweeney and Polk, Democrats; McGregor, Robert Jones, Hess, Seccomb, Jenkins, Lewis, Bender, Vorys, Frederick Smith and Elston, Republicans.

Three members, Marshall, Mrs. Bolton and Clevenger, Republicans, are known to be cool toward the principle of conscription.

Representative Crosser (D) did not express himself. He voted against the World war draft.

Representatives Routzohn and Clarence Brown, Republicans, withheld comment pending house discussion of the measure.

Both Senator Donahey (D) and Taft (R) were in the minority when the senate approved the legislation. Taft wanted the government to try voluntary enlistments before undertaking an unprecedented peace-time draft. Taft is supported by Hess, McGregor, Claypool, Secrest and Lewis.

Donahey, saying the country should train a small mechanized army and then "tend to its own business," called the senate action a step that would stamp America a 'gutless nation."

Representative Smith asserted, "I am opposed to conscription of men as well as private property in time of peace." Eaton also was against drafting of industry.

ILLNESS FATAL

William Boals, 78, Was Native of Mifflin Township.

William R. Boals, 78, of Bahl avenue, East Mansfield, a native of Mifflin township, died early today at General hospital after a brief illness.

Born Jan. 13, 1862, Mr. Boals had lived on a farm in Mifflin township until 10 years ago when he retired and moved to Mansfield. He was a member of the United Brethren church.

Surviving are four sons, Clarence D., Benjamin F., and Willard E. of Mansfield and Walter of Toledo; a sister, Mrs. L. F. Hout of Mifflin township; a daughter, Mrs. Park Mossholder of Mt. Vernon, 15 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. at the United Brethren church in charge of Rev. James L. Boyer, pastor. Burial will be in Windsor cemetery. The body will remain at the Finefrock funeral home until time of services. Friends may call at the funeral home.

COLLECTIONS IN

Shelby Tax Receipts Swell County Treasury, $4,698.

With the receipt today of an additional $4,698 in general property tax collections from the Shelby district, Richland county collections for the last half of 1939 reached a total of $613,387.83 Deputy Treasurer Charles Payne announced today.

The Shelby office is in charge of C. L. Beal.

ASHLAND COUNTY RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Maria Hershey Succumbs At Home of Son.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Maria Hershey, 86, a resident of Ashland county for 45 years, died at the home of her son, Clark Hershey, at Steamtown yesterday.

She is survived by two sons, Clark, of Steamtown, and Emmett, of Pavonia; one daughter, Mrs. W. D. Betz, of Pavonia; and eight grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the Chestnut Grove church, of which she was the oldest member. Burial will be made near Pavonia, with Rev. W. J. Myers of Sippo officiating.

YOUTH BURNED BY FUEL BLAST

Loudonville Boy Hurt in Corn Popper Explosion.

LOUDONVILLE—Richard Robinson, 13, was severely burned about his face and hands Saturday afternoon, while operating a pop corn popper in a street wagon, on a downtown street.

He was employed by Harv Heffelfinger and had been in charge of the wagon for some time. A gas line broke between the cart, causing an explosion. He was treated by a physician and removed to his home. The wagon was completely demolished.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Miss Midnight's Diary.

Dear Diary: These last few midnights have indicated a return of two aspects of bistro life—the Jolly Sunday Galas and the Amateur Spirit.

Both of these were rampant at Leon and Eddie's last Sunday evening, when a handsome young man in his twenties mounted the stage and made his debut as a fast patter man, winning handsome applause in competition with such comedy veterans as Milton Berle, Henny Youngman and Al Trahan. I noticed that Variety's "new acts" department somehow failed to turn up to scout the performer, but if it had I'm sure the review would have reported, "Newcomer k.o.'s cash customers. Socko appearance. Flash personality."

The fellow's name, in case there is a two-a-day scout in the house, was Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

The touching part of Franklin's appearance was the timorousness displayed by those old Swing Street disciples of informality, Leon and Eddie, when they heard the President's son was present. They warned Archie Robbins, who was introducing the celebrities, not to mention the Roosevelt name among all the Broadway characters, for fear it would be unseemly, but this attitude was changed by Franklin himself, who summoned the m. c. and begged.

"Don't just introduce me, make me get up. I know a couple of good jokes."

(Okay, he said, good jokes, not new ones.)

Anyway, it was the first time in history that Milton Berle's mother laughed louder at another comedian than she did at her own son's jokes. Franklin came over after his act and thanked her for the noise.

"You're wonderful," he said. "You know, I've got quite a mother myself!"

Over at Spivy's diminutive roof —Roof-Corner, I should think they'd call it—the same sort of thing was going on, in a slightly more lorgnette manner. Everybody was getting up to perform. Mack Kriendler of 21 arose to sing a song in his lusty baritone (heard in his own tavern only on New Year's Eve and very odd Monday mornings); Alan Prescott did a master-of-ceremonies job. Phil Baker played the piano, and Carol Bruce sang "Music Maestro Please" to terrific applause. Among the sardines in the audience were Elsie Huston, Dwight Fiske, John La-Touche, Leonard Sillman, Eddie DeLange, Peggy Fears and Gypsy Rose Lee.

Peggy Fears wore a pink hair-ribbon around her dark tresses, and Gypsy Rose Lee arose during the evening to bow to the gathering. Of course you know what the baritones in the audience yelled when Miss Lee got up. They screamed:

"Take it off!"

Lunchtime the other day at the Algonquin's Oak Room (which salon, Mr. Frank Case is quick to tell you, started as an acorn) brought out a smattering—if you can call cash customers smattering—of the intelligentsia, the theatre creatures and the movie faces.

Konrad Bercovici's startling black mustache was neutralized by Nancy Carroll's red coiffure and baby face, and Marc Connelly was set off by Harry Carey. Lawrence Tibbett's blitzkrieg on a filet mignon stifled forever, in my mind, the notion that opera singers eat nothing but spaghetti and garlic. Constance Collier looked lovely with a salad.

Talk turned, as it will among theatre folks, to the non-stop soiree for the benefit of the American Theater Wing of the Allied Relief Fund, which will be held at the Berkshire Hotel Wednesday by courtesy of Jim Moriarity —and which should hit a new high for benefits.

The festivities will begin at cocktail time, and end when the last merrymaker is swept out of the jernt, going right through dinner, a fashion show, supper, and I presume breakfast, with stars performing to the right of you and to the left of you every few mintues. Tallulah Bankhead will be there, and Larry Adler, and Helen Hayes, and John Buckmaster will be only one of the witty masters of ceremonies.

At the supper show, the guests will play Going to Jerusalem known to our British pals as Musical Chairs) and this is when I plan to arrive. The things I want to see more than anything this year is Tallulah Bankhead playing Musical Chairs.

Alfred Hitchcock's new film, "Foreign Correspondent," was applauded the other night at its Rivoli premiere by such prominent characters as the dour-looking Walter Wanger who produced it; chic Ilka Chase, jovial Meyer Davis, husky Ralph Bellamy and fragile Hope Hampton.

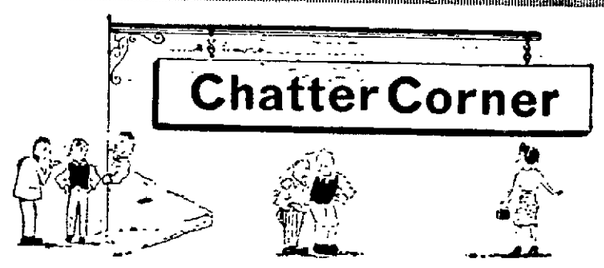
These guests were set upon by the autograph hounds, of course, but what I liked was the sight of the three Club 18 nit-wits, Jack White, Pat Harrington and Frankie Hyers, handing their autographs to the celebrities in the lobby before the film began!

Afterwards a lot of the premiere goers dropped into the 18, and the tables were decorated by Harry Hopkins, Marion Nixon, Carl Brisson, Betsy Cuching Roosevelt and Walter Wanger Wanger again. One of the dinner-jacketed guests was asked to take a bow, and as he arose, Pat Harrington shouted:

"Sit down (you bum!")

Frankie Hyers shook his head and ad libbed:

"Some day you're gonna call a guy a bum—who ain't!"



(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

FELLOW WORKERS SAVE EMPLOYE

Elmer Stitzline, 48 Was Nearly Buried In Cave-In.

LOUDONVILLE — Prompt rescue work by two fellow employes and members of a street repair gang were credited today with saving the life of Elmer Stitzline, 48.

Stitzline was buried up to his chin when the wall of a sewer excavation on which he was working on North Spring street caved in on him at 9:30 a. m. His co-workers summoned aid from the street gang working nearby and Stitzline was dug free in a few minutes.

Following x-ray examination, Dr. Ralph Paisley ordered Stitzline removed to his home. The physician said that no bones were broken but that Stitzline had suffered severe bruises over his entire body.

BODY OF OHIO STATE TICKET SELLER FOUND

Billingsley and 2 Companions In Car Taken From River After Three Years.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The body of Verl R. Billingsley, 45, assistant director of ticket sales at Ohio State university, who disappeared mysteriously with two men companions more than three years ago was believed recovered today from the Scioto river above Griggs dam.

An automobile containing three badly decomposed bodies tentatively identified as those of Billingsley and his companions, Robert Bair, 41, and James Shadrach, 36, was dragged from the river by police.

The car was discovered after a fisherman's line caught on an object, causing oil to rise to the river surface. He notified police who raised the car.

Police said the license number on the 1936 Plymouth sedan was the one issued to Billingsley, making it virtually certain that the three bodies were those of the owner and the two men last seen in March 1937 when they left a northside cafe.

The car was dragged from the river by police and firemen at the foot of Lane road, near Fishinger's bridge, north of the university campus. It was lifted from water 15 to 30 feet deep. One body was in front and two in the rear seat.

With the recovery of the victims and their car one of the most baffling mysteries of the Columbus police department apparently was solved.

Billingsley, married and the father of two daughters, had been employed at the university for 23 years. Bair, a plumber's helper, was divorced and had two sons, and Shadrach, married, had a son 12 years old when his father disappeared.

Often the trio was seen together. Witnesses said the three men had been drinking on the afternoon of March 27, 1937, when last they were seen.

Their disappearance did not become known publicly until 38 days later when the first formal report was made to police. University officials said Billingsley's accounts were in good order and could advance no reason for him dropping from sight voluntarily.

"It seems that the sedan came to the end of Lane road with such momentum that the driver could not stop and it plunged over the embankment and settled in the river," said Detective Chief Leo Phillips.

GOOD WEATHER STAYS A WHILE

Forecasters Predict No Change in Temperature.

Continuance of the pleasant holiday weather which marked the Labor day week-end was promised today by weather forecasters who predicted little change in temperature and clear skies for tonight and Wednesday.

Moderate temperatures prevailed throughout the week-end with a high of 80 on Saturday and 73 and 72 recorded as top temperatures for Sunday and Monday. Nights were cool. The mercury dropped to 49 last night and at noon today stood at 70.

MANSFIELDER'S BROTHER DIES

Vernon Herbert, War Veteran, Stricken In Chicago.

Vernon S. Herbert, 47, brother of Joy A. Herbert, manager of the Mansfield division of the Ohio Public Service company, died Sunday in Veterans hospital, Chicago, after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Herbert, who spent the summer of 1932 in Mansfield, served overseas with the Marine Signal corps and was in the army of occupation. His home was in Elyria. Surviving in addition his brother here are his mother, Mrs. Ella Herbert and another brother, Paul, both in Elyria.

Military funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Elyria American Leion post home. Burial will be in Elyria cemetery.

WEIGH SEWER MACHINE BIDS

Members of Board Find Wide Variance in Prices on Cleaning Equipment.

The city board of control today was studying bids submitted on a sewer cleaning machine to be purchased for speeding up removal of debris from the sanitary sewer system.

Bids were opened Saturday by the board which is comprised of Mayor William J. Locke and Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton.

Crafton said this morning that it would probably be several days before the board awarded a contract. He said officials would probably call for a demontsration of the various machines.

Lowest of the three proposals entered was submitted by the W. T. Walsh Equipment company, Cleveland, which quoted a price of $1,050.

The firm's bid was $1,200 lower than the closest competitor, the Champion corporation, Hammond, Ind., which submitted a price of $2,250. The Turbine Sewer Machinery Company, Inc., Millwaukee, Wis., bid $2,353.

Purchase of the mobile equipment to expediate sewer cleaning was authorized by city council at its Aug. 6 meeting when it set up $2,000 to cover the expense.

ESCAPEE HELD

O. S. R. Fugitive Charged With Murder at Youngstown.

Superintendent A. L. Glattke, Ohio State reformatory, today had filed detainers in Mahoning county against Amil Rosovitz, 30, who will be charged with first degree murder in the death of John Donnelly, following a robbery at a private club in Youngstown Glattke said Rosovitz escaped from the reformatory June 26, 1934, while serving a 10 to 25-year sentence for robbery of a Youngstown confectionery in 1929.

Youngstown police reported that Rosovitz was captured by patrons of the club shortly after Donnelly and another man were shot during the robbery. Donnelly died Sunday.

According to the Associated Press, Rosovitz had returned to Youngstown less than 24 hours before he attempted to hold up the club.

GERMANS BADLY BEATEN IN AIR FIGHT BY RAF

they reached an inland town.

While civilians scampered for shelters, the British fliers scattered the German bombing formation and engaged the Messerschmitts. One British fighter eluded a German plane by diving from 20,000 feet—a height of almost four miles—to just above the town's railroad station.

Meanwhile Great Britain sent long-range bombers to the attack upon the continent.

A strong formation of British bombers was believed to have struck heavily at the Boulogne region along the coast of German-held France. Shortly after the bombers were seen heading out across the channel deep explosions were heard coming from Boulogne.

(Bern, Switzerland, had three air raid alarms during the night, indicating British planes again were on raiding flights to Italy and possibly southern Germany.)

Clouds of Smoke Seen By Germans

BERLIN—(AP)—Clouds of smoke and flame were reported shooting more than a mile high over four of England's naval bases and harbors today by German airmen who returned from night attacks marking the start of a second year of war with Britain

Smoke was shooting 6,500 feet into the air over Bristol, southeast England port, the fliers said. They mentioned Swansea and Cardiff, both in Wales, and the great south England naval base of Portsmouth as places where other fires as big had been started by their bombs.

In addition, the high command said, four other of Britain's most important harbors and naval bases — Liverpool, Plymouth, Portland and Poole—were heavily attacked and with the aim of destroying warehouses and piers.

The high command said hangars and barracks at a string of airports at Hornchurch, Gravesend, Eastchurch and Delting, all in southeast England on the road which the air force is attempting to blast to London, were partly destroyed by fire in yesterday's air raids.

In almost continuous air fights, the high command said, 93 British planes were destroyed, while 23 German planes were missing.

The Nazi press, reviewing the achievements of the past 12 months, found the situation thoroughly satisfactory from the German point of view.

Newspapers said that despite the best efforts of the British naval blockade they found no cause to grumble over the food situation in Germany and declared adequate supplies of oil were available to keep the Nazi air force aloft until Britain has been smashed.

Paralyzing new blows were struck at the British air force yesterday in a series of sweeping raids, the high command reported.

and informed sources claimed English resistance in the air could not survive two more weeks of battering.

The British claimed 42 German planes were destroyed to 13 British planes lost.

British plane losses Sunday were put at 62 as against only nine German planes missing.

HOUSE OPENS DRAFT DEBATE

2 to 1 Victory Forecast By Conscription Measure Supporters.

the forecast of Rep. May (D-Ky.), chairman of the house military committee, which prepared the modified version of the Burke-Wadsworth bill on which the house will act.

In the oratorical battle anticipated before the decisive vote is reached Friday or Saturday, the arguments for and against conscription were expected to duplicate the general tenor of those aired in the senate before it approved the Burke-Wadsworth measure after three intensive weeks of debate.

The major clashes were looked for on those sections of the modified house bill which differ from the verison passed by the senate.

The biggest difference is on the age limits fixed. The house bill would make all male citizens of prospective citizens from 21 through 44 subject to registration and liable for military service. An approximate total of 24,000,000 men thereby would be affected. The senate version would restrict operation of the draft to the 12,000,000 from 21 through 30.

Both houses also disagree on the maximum number of conscripts to be permitted in service at one time. The house bill figure is 1,000,000, whereas the senate voted for 900,000. A compromise agreement on this point, however, was not regarded as difficult.

On the other hand, considerable contention was looked for on the question whether the conscription bill should carry a provision empowering the government to "draft" industry, whenever it refused to agree on terms for armament orders vital to defense needs.

The senate-approved bill incorporated a "draft industry" amendment, sponsored by Senators Overton (D-La.) and Russell (D-Ga.), which would authorize the government to institute condemnation proceedings against recalcitrant firms and assume ownership of their plants.

Chairman May predicted that this committee would defeat any attempt to incorporate the Overton-Russell proviso in the house bill, but said, however, that the committee might look favorably on a substitute amendment prepared by Rep. Smith (D-Conn.). The Smith amendment would authorize the taking-over of non-cooperative industries, but the government would merely rent them at a fair price during the emergency and would not acquire ownership.

CHAPTER VIII

Edwina's mind was busy with thoughts of the tall fair girl in white as Alan followed her around the veranda to the front entrance. It was brighter there and as the light struck his face, she realized with a shock that he had changed. He was older, of course, the lines of his face had settled into early maturity, his clothes were well cut and the mark of success was unmistakably upon him. But there was more. . . .

In a swift, appraising glance she saw that his face wore a look of craftiness, of scheming, of cleverness that was not there when she had known him as a struggling student. She thought: I could be wrong. I've been wrong so often. But it's there. . . . He isn't the same! Underneath he isn't the same. He isn't transparent any more so that all you see are good fine thoughts and unselfishness and honor and honesty.

The night wind cooled her face and sent the lovely crimson frock billowing. Enclosed in two shells of silence, they walked along the stone path toward the rear garden. In the darkness no one recognized them and in their anonymity she knew that Alan found consolation.

Thinking that their silence was as absurd as that of two angry children, she said, "I've been hearing highly flattering things about you, Alan. Local boy makes good and all that sort of thing. My congratulations." But she could not keep a certain hardness out of her voice. Perhaps he'd always been like that, crafty and scheming, and she had been too young and too much in love with him to notice.

"Thank you. But I can do without your congratulations. I don't need them."

Her face seemed to go up in flames. Spinning on high gold heels, she faced him.

"Very pleased with yourself, aren't you? That suit isn't rented or borrowed! You're not a guest here now but a member. The plan of your life has worked out splendidly, hasn't it? And you are going to marry a girl that any one can see is good and beautiful, and in love with you. Why shouldn't I congratulate you? You've done better than any one else I know!"

Her wide eyes narrowed and with a careless flip she tossed away her cigaret. "But how, I wonder. . . . How? Because I knew so well the boy you used to be, and I can see the man you've become. Am I the only person to see it?"

"What do you mean?"

"That was an admission of guilt, Alan. You've changed: that's what I mean. Superficially you are the same, the clean, unright soul who was going to be a lawyer to the poor and who scorned my money. A man can't fool a girl who's been in love with him. Perhaps it isn't anything you've done, but what you've thought that's changed you. . . ."

"You're talking rot."

"Am I? We'll see."

"You'd break me if you could, wouldn't you? You'd break me and send me back where I started. But you can't."

"But I know you. I know that all you really want is to be a big success and have every one tell you how wonderful you are. An inferiority complex that can be cured only with money and success. Five years ago the fineness of you shamed me. I wasn't good enough for you with all my money and my position here. Now you've become an efficient machine with a goal, and you are going to marry a girl who glows with life. How can you make her happy? How can you make any girl happy?"

She stopped short. "We should have danced, you know. We'd have given the gossips a treat. Maybe they'd stop gossiping about us."

When a couple passed, she closed her mouth firmly. Her forehead was moist and her hands weak from anger more vehement than any she had felt for a long time. She wanted to shake him out of his coolness and confidence and with a rough sweep of her hand to erase the sneering smile. Hero into villain . . . How funny, how pathetically funny? Oh, but what did it matter? Why was she bothering? So much effort as wasted, as futile, as disillusioning as her love had been five years ago. Perhaps this was the true meaning of growing up. . . .

The flames had died down in her face: she gave a little shrug of bare shoulders and moved away from him. For a moment she felt faint, almost ill. The old Edwina had faced Alan: the new Edwina, helpless, gambling on a thin chance, playing a game with Norman in which she dared not fail, had walked away from him.

Presently she heard him beside her and she knew, for courtesy's sake, that they would go in together and join the others.

"You hate me, Alan. I've never hated you or anybody. It's all over and done with, a part of our lives that's finished. I'll never be eighteen again. I'll never have my father again. I'm twenty-three and a great deal has happened to me since I left. And I didn't come back to stir up the old scandal or to make trouble. I just wanted to come home."

"I never trusted you and I don't trust you now. You think you know me. Well, I know you. I don't care how long you stay, but I hope I never see you again."

"I probably deserve that. It was an unforgivable thing I did to you, getting you drunk and marrying you. I'm sorry. I never had the chance to tell you before."

Inside, above the music, Norman said, "It's a pity that Benson's culinary accomplishments are appreciated solely by me. Can't I induce you to come out and have luncheon with me some day, Carol?" He laughed. "No. Your face says a thousand times no. I'll have to be more ingenious and think of something else. Not kidnaping. I try that only once on my girls. Very effective, too. Never fails."

"Why not ask Edwina?" They were out in the garden, Alan and Edwina. What were they saying? What could they say? The music seemed endless. Chorus after chorus of the same song had been played and she was miserable, her heart uneasy.

"Of course I'm going to ask Edwina. My house is just over the hill from hers. I was in her house tonight. It's a magnificent place and it's been kept beautifully by two old caretakers. Carol, will you forgive me if I am honest enough to admit that I bribed the orchestra to make this a long number?"

"You didn't!"

"Oh, but I did. And since some of the oldsters look as if they're going to drop, I think I'd better signal the leader to stop. Thanks, Aphrodite."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1940.

Happy are those fortunate few who deferred their vacation until September.

Some of the school children who didn't do so well last year are explaining that they have better grades "on order."

Science note says that the electric power in a destructive bolt of lightning isn't worth more than two cents—in which there is some resemblance to radical agitators.

Teaching Americanism In Schools

REOPENING of schools and colleges, after the long summer vacation, makes especially timely the suggestions of State Education Director E. N. Dietrich, who advocates a "broadened public school program designed to heighten the consciousness of Ohio school children toward democracy."

"We are beginning to realize, as educators," said Mr. Dietrich, "that we have to teach a great many things not found between the covers of text books." (It will be regretted that this realization did not come sooner, and is not now more universal among educators.)

"Our goal must be to impress upon pupils the benefits to be derived from a democratic rather than a totalitarian form of government, and teach them their responsibility. . . . We must not only build an armed defense, but construct inwardly a democracy that will withstand all inroads of the various 'isms' now being advocated throughout the world. Our plan is not to ignore these 'isms' but to make their faults plain to the pupil," said Mr. Dietrich.

Such an awakening to one of the primary purposes of public education in the United States cannot fail to have a beneficial effect on young people privileged to enjoy free schooling under the American system of government.

An inclination has been evident in many schools and colleges to take Americanism for granted and to assume that children would, in some way, learn all that was necessary about the advantages of democracy without being taught them.

So-called "academic freedom" has even, in a few instances, carried to the point of teachers, as individuals or groups, objecting to taking the oath of allegiance, and allowing socialistic or communistic leanings to influence their instruction on these subjects—in both schools and colleges.

As is clearly evidenced by the expressed views of the state director of education, such attitude or teaching is entirely out of accord with the intent of the Ohio public school system—indicating need for closer scrutiny of the sincere Americanism of persons who lay claim to "academic freedom."

Must Nationalism Be Discarded?

WE HAVE become so accustomed to the idea of nationalism," writes Howard Vincent O'Brien in the Chicago News, "that we are blind to the alterations in that idea which are being made in modern economic and social life.

"In France, there was a powerful group that had to decide between two fears. For Scylla there was 'the people' and for Charybdis there was Hitler. Between the two they preferred Hitler. Under him they figured they would be safer than without him.

"France thus ceases to be a nation and becomes a province in the Greater Reich. In the age of nationalism, loyalty was vertical. Now, it appears, we are entering an age of horizontal loyalties, and great is the resulting confusion.

"Germany, it seems, is unified as France once was. But underneath the well-ordered exterior we can be sure that the same disintegrating play of forces is at work.

"Germany, of course, is a novice in the idea of nationalism. 'Germany' only dates from 1870. But with the increasing tempo of change, it is likely that the Germans will not be so slow to liquefy as the French were.

"The revolutionary melting pot is at a boil these days, and what will come out is anybody's guess. It does seem probable, however, that in Europe, if not elsewhere, the concept of nationalism is going to undergo some fundamental alterations, and perhaps be obliterated entirely. Win, lose or draw, the world is not going back to 1939."

And in America? It doesn't seem likely that there can be such a melting process here. But who knows? Certainly vast changes are at work here, right now, which some interpret as marking approach to a new internationalism.

Banking's Broadened Outlook

NO BUSINESS can stand still and serve the nation to the limits of its capacity. That is as true of banking as any other calling. And banking realizes it—as indicated by the Graduate School of Banking, maintained by the American Bankers association, whose work is to give men a better understanding of the duties and obligations of their profession.

Robert M. Hanes, president of the association, recently said this: "The best preparation for the future lies in the development of our capacities in the present. We shall be prepared to meet the changes of the future to the degree that we are masters of ourselves and our profession in the present. The banking system is the keystone of the American economic order. Whatever strains and whatever changes are visited upon the business order by the conflicts in Europe will be reflected in it. They can be coped with successfully only by bankers who are the masters of their business. From this point of view the Graduate School of Banking is the hope of banking."

Banking, Mr. Hanes continued, has always been responsive to the country's needs. At the same time, it has reflected a certain amount of parochialism. It is this parochialism, he added, which the Graduate School is overcoming—by "lifting the thinking of hundreds of men beyond the confines of their own local business environment, giving wider horizons to their thought and an understanding of banking and the economic forces related to it."

Another Canal Channel

PLANS are near completion for a new Panama Canal, and digging may soon start. It will be presumably not another complete canal, with entirely new channels all the way through, but a new set of locks using most of the present channel. That is not so good as three complete ditches would be. But locks are the main thing, and the new locks will be for the exclusive use of Uncle Sam.

It can be assumed that this job will be done in record time. Meanwhile construction of a second war fleet will go right ahead. Events in Europe have shown the need for complete military preparedness in America.

HOME FROM THE SEVEN YEARS HUNTING TRIP

Listen, World!

Make Copy of It!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU LEARN one grim lesson from a newspaper columnist's job. YOU LEARN TO "MAKE COPY" FROM EVERYTHING THAT HAPPENS TO YOU.

Your private disappointment and despair, fear and failure, heartbreak and humiliation—sooner or later, you put them all into a story. And that isn't because there's a dearth of other topics. There is a much deeper reason.

You learn to make copy of your own life because it is really just that—"spot news," the most convincing "spot news" you have to offer.

And by sharing it with the other fellow, you render the greatest possible service to him, and to yourself.

Life is just copy—a serial story to which every man contributes. And YOUR or MY contribution is no more vital or valuable than the next chap's.

I rebel against the unfairness of the world, and to me my rebellion seems especially courageous. All these selfish, cowardly, stupid people whom I know—do they ever burn with such righteous indignation; ever thrill to such noble visions? I'm sure they don't. But of course I'm wrong. Actually, they are no more selfish, cowardly or stupid than myself. They love fairness quite as much as I do, and have their flaming causes for which they, also, fight.

I suffer shame. Surely no one was ever so tortured by failure as I am; writhed so under ridicule; hungered so for love and praise and understanding! But again, I'm wrong. Sensitiveness is as universal as stomach ache. I have no monopoly of it. The other fellow's hide is fully as tender as mine.

I love! And this time I'M SURE I'M DIFFERENT. For here are ecstasies that no one else can ever know. Here are delicate mysteries impossible to cruder souls. So I rave on—not knowing that I share each joy with every loving soul!

Dreams, tears, fears, rebellions, regrets and ecstasies—none of them is unique. None of them is really my "personal experience." They are all EVERYBODY'S personal experience. They are woof and warp of the universal fabric of life.

But if I can realize that everybody feels the same way and if I can use that realization as a key to enter other lives, then every experience, however tragic or trivial, becomes a priceless asset.

Prove it? Prove it for yourself. Observe some human who has suffered a great grief or defeat and has kept that agony locked tight within his own heart. What happens? You've seen it happen. Year after year that human grows more self-centered, less approachable. Finally his life is walled off from the common experience as completely as if he were locked in a cell.

Then observe some wiser person who has endured as heavy a blow, but who realizes that such experience is all-of-a-piece with the average human lot—and proceeds to act accordingly. What happens to him? He not only wins love but he accumulates power. BY SHARING HIS LIFE WITH THE OTHER FELLOW, HE NOT ONLY EASES HIS OWN HURT BUT HE INCREASES HIS OWN HAPPINESS.

Why do newspaper columnists "make copy" of everything that happens to them? That's why.

THEY PASS LIFE ON — NOT BECAUSE THEY'RE GOOD, BUT BECAUSE THEY'RE SMART.

If you're wise you'll follow the columnist's example. Stop thinking that you're different. Stop believing that your experiences are unique. Realize that they're only "copy"—only valuable if and to the degree that you pass them on.

Hog your life and you'll lose it.

SHARE YOUR LIFE — AND YOU'LL DOUBLE IT.

War Has Crushed Ten Nations

IN case you've forgotten, this year-old war began in a squabble over a pinpoint of land, Danzig. You may also have forgotten that for six months folks called it a "phony."

Here's how things stand at the end of round one, which went decisively to the dictators.

How It Happened.

Sept. 1, 1939 Germans invade Poland. Allies declare war two days later.

Sept. 17 Russians invade Poland.

Sept. 27 Warsaw surrenders.

Nov. 30 Russians invade Finland.

Dec. 17 German pocketbattleship Graf Spee scuttled.

March 13 1940—Finland surrenders.

April 9 Denmark and Norway invaded.

May 10 Germans invade Lowlands.

May 11—Churchill replaces Chamberlain.

June 10—Italy declares war.

June 17—French capitulate.

June 27—Russia takes Bessarabia, begins absorbing three Baltic states.

Aug. 8—Germans begin heavy air raids on England.

Aug. 20—Italy takes British Somaliland.

Totalitarian Gains.

Germany has reincorporated within Germany all of her 1914 territory except a sliver of Denmark and that is occupied by Germans. . . . Controls all the land facing England, from Narvik, Norway, to the Spanish border. . . . Has subjugated a fifth of Europe's population, and dominated millions more in southeastern Europe.

Russia has gained part of Poland and Rumania and the three little Baltic states without fighting, has won a foothold in Finland by three bloody months of fighting.

Italy has won a thin slice of France and greater influence in Jibuti and Tunis, has captured sandy British Somaliland.

Cost.

At least 850,000 European soldiers have died and 3,000,000 have been wounded. This does not include civilian casualties.

More than 8,000,000 civilians were driven from their homes.

About 800 ships have been sunk.

The independence of 10 nations has been extinguished. Two more, Finland and Rumania, lost land.

Economic losses, though staggering, are as yet inestimable.

Timely Editorial

Flexibility of Human Mind.

The human mind has an extraordinary ability to adapt itself to new conditions. Remember the shock we all felt at the fall of France a month ago. Now the fact that France is ruled by a dictatorship, subservient to the Nazi will, is part of our everyday thinking. It takes a conscious intellectual effort to recall that six months ago a France in German hands seemed wildly implausible.

Remember the horror attached to the news that the first German bomb had fallen on British soil. Now we accept as a matter of course the reports of daily raids on all parts of England—bombings of far greater intensity than the aggregate aerial attacks on England during the last war.

Realization that one's mind can grow accustomed to the thought of bombing raids is disturbing. But a more distressing idea is the plight of the non-existent person who could not forget, even for a moment, any part of the terror and destruction which involve three-fourths of the world. —New York Post.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Sept. 3, 1920.

Contracts were let for improvements to the City club property, formerly the Lyman A. Strong home, 146 Park avenue west.

Harry J. Dotson moved his family from Delphos to 113 South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Haas, 180 South Diamond street, were surprised by friends on tenth wedding anniversary.

Alvin H. Olson left for Madison to enter University of Wisconsin.

C. A. Mathany, Akron, succeeded Mrs. Mary J. Fink as manager of the Postal telegraph office here.

Telephone communication between the United States and Europe was mentioned as "an amazing possibility."

Miss Martha Chambers took teaching position in Columbus high school.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Sept. 3, 1935.

Mansfield city council was faced with problem of rebuilding Mansfield sewage plant at a cost of $328,550.

Announcement was made that Liberty park would have a $25,000 municipal swimming pool as a result of action taken by city council.

Mansfield's application for a $45,000 PWA grant for water works improvement was rejected by Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator.

A $45,000 storm sewer program embracing 11 different jobs was approved by the city council.

Walter Snyder, algebra teacher at John Simpson Junior high school, was released from his contract so that he could accept assistant professorship in mathematics at Ohio State university.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The treaty between Great Britain and the United States, ending the American Revolution, was signed on September 3, 1783. Actual hostilities had ceased upon the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown on Oct. 19, 1781.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Draft Hold-Up Until After Election Most Likely Cause of House Delay

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Real test facing the conscription bill in the house isn't the plan to "draft industry." Despite Wendell Willkie's blast, the chamber will approve some form of legislation empowering the government to conscript industry as well as men.

Also the chances are strong that the house will pare down the 21-to-45 age limit to the 21-to-31 range already fixed by the senate. The toughest hurdle against the bill is the same little-noticed one that nearly stopped it in the senate.

This was the amendment sponsored by Senators Hayden of Arizona and Tydings of Maryland, postponing the draft for 60 days during which the army would conduct an intensified recruiting drive. Then, if an insufficient number of men had been obtained, the remainder would be made up by conscription.

Offered in the closing hours of the senate battle, the plan came within a hair's breadth of passage: being defeated only by two votes, 43 to 41, the closest vote on the legislation. Reason for this was the postponement feature of the amendment.

Facing a hard and uncertain election, the senators, even though favoring the draft, are fearful about putting it into operation until after Nov. 5. Army plans do not contemplate setting conscription machinery into motion until around Nov. 15, but the politicos prefer not to take even the remotest chances.

They almost put the 60-day postponement across in the senate, where only one-third of the members are up for election. What will happen in the house, where every congressman faces the polls, remains to be seen.

Minister of Munitions.

THERE is a very human story behind the appointment of Benedict Crowell, who was assistant secretary of war under Woodrow Wilson, to aid Secretary of War Stimson in speeding up national defense orders.

It results from an old friendship between Stimson and Crowell dating back to the post-war days, when Crowell was indicted on charges of misappropriating public money in connection with World war orders. Crowell was in charge of munitions purchases during the war, and when the Harding administration got into power, it put into the justice department Harry Daugherty of Teapot Dome fame, who had been an old enemy of Crowell's in Ohio politics.

Shortly thereafter, Crowell was indicted on charges brought by Daugherty's justice department.

This roused the indignation of Henry L. Stimson, who had been secretary of war in the Taft administration, a colonel of field artillery in the World war, and knew how easy it was to charge an executive with maladministration of funds. So Stimson, a Republican went to Crowell, a Democrat, and offered to defend him.

The charges against Crowell were phoney and nothing came of them. But this started a firm friendship which has continued ever since.

And when Stimson first was appointed secretary of war by Roosevelt, Crowell came to help him by making a survey of the entire war department situation. At that time Stimson asked him to serve as his assistant secretary, but Crowell, declining, said that if Stimson found he needed him later, he would come to Washington.

Crowell is now president of the Central National Bank of Cleveland, but also has been for many years president of the Army Ordnance association, thus has kept closely in touch with the munitions problem.

His job with Stimson is to rush the production of munitions and make sure there is no lost motion between the National Defense commission and the war department.

Blows Against Britain.

THE most disastrous news that has escaped the British censor recently is the fact that the Bristol arms factory in southwest England has been severely damaged by German bombs. This news has come back to Washington via the diplomatic and military cables.

The Bristol plant is one of the most important munitions factories in England, and apparently it has been virtually put out of business. Coming on top of damage to the Rolls-Royce airplane motor plant, this is devastating information.

Furthermore, the Germans have been causing a lot more damage than gets on the press cables, and on the whole the British situation has worsened considerably in the past week.

British morale is still high, in fact better than during the last World war, and British aviators still are putting up an amazing battle, far surpassing the Germans in individual skill and bravery. However, bravery and morale alone will not win a war, and when the output of many factories such as the Bristol arms plant is stopped, it means that the British may have only morale and bravery left.

On the optimistic side, however, Royal Air Force aviators have been wreaking terrific damage on German gasoline plants and Ruhr factories. The damage to German plants is greater proportionately. Only trouble is that the British don't have nearly as many planes as the Germans to perform bombing raids of this kind.

The ratio in British bombing planes a short time ago was 12 Nazi to one British bomber — based upon carrying capacity. It is a little better now but not much.

Capital Chaff.

THERE'S a new color scheme on the White House—blue scaffolding against the white walls, in preparation for the big job of repainting the mansion . . . Pressure on the state department's telephone service forced abandonment of its historic number—District 4510—in favor of Republic 5600, to accommodate new branches and lines . . . YWCA is moving its international headquarters from Geneva to Washington . . . Indicative of the importance of Pan-American relations, Time Magazine is sending its crack Washington correspondent, Harold J. T. Horan, to Buenos Aires to open a new office there.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—History lesson: There has been a great deal of talk of late about the Lincoln-Douglas debates, and of whether they established political precedents.

I have run across some sidelights which seem to me far too interesting to be buried in history books.

The debates were held in 1858, when Stephen A. Douglas, the senatorial incumbent, was running for re-election and Railsplitter Abe Lincoln, a newcomer in national politics, was endeavoring to unseat him.

Many Were Informal.

THE debates started, and many of them were continued, on a purely informal basis. Senator Douglas would appear for a scheduled speech. Sometimes when he was well along, gangling Abe would show up lounging around the rim of the crowd, and, either by accident or design, Republicans in the audience would demand to hear from Lincoln after Douglas had completed his address. Sometimes the two did not appear on the platform on the same day.

There is a story that Douglas, driving into a southern Illinois town for a scheduled speech, met Lincoln rushing to the town Douglas had just appeared in to make his rebuttal address.

"The Little Giant" hailed his opponent and said, "Abe, you better come on back and argue with me here. With me along, you'll get an audience."

None In 1860.

IN 1860, when Lincoln was nominated at Chicago and Douglas at Baltimore (after the first Democratic convention at Charleston had deadlocked and rebellious fire-eating southerners withdrew to name their own candidate) there were no debates.

As a matter of fact, Lincoln did no active campaigning, remaining in Springfield to answer correspondence and receive delegations. Douglas did campaign. When he started speaking in Maine, it was almost a political scandal, because for 70 years it had been a tradition that presidential candidates should never so far stoop from dignity as to make speeches for office.

By the time Douglas had swung into the South, it is said, he was weary, discouraged and perhaps convinced that Lincoln would win. At any rate, he opened his St. Louis speech with: "I am not here tonight to ask for your votes for the presidency. . . . I am here to make an appeal to you on behalf of the union and the peace of the country." From then on "The Little Giant" pleaded more for the cause of the union than for his candidacy.

Pledged His Support.

WHEN Lincoln came to Washington for his inaugural, one of the first to meet him at the Willard hotel was Douglas, his long-time foe, and it is reported that Douglas, gripping Lincoln's hand, said:

"You and I have been for many years politically opposed to each other, but in our devotion and attachment to the Constitution and the union, we have never differed — in this we are one—this must and shall not be destroyed. Our union must be preserved. Partisan feeling must yield to patriotism. I am with you, Mr. President, and God bless you."

When Lincoln later made his inaugural address and stood hesitantly a moment before the cluttered, rickety table, debating what to do with his tall beaver hat, it was Democratic Sen. Stephen A. Douglas who stepped to his side, took the hat and held it throughout the ceremony.

A Farmer's Diary

Considering the Toad

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WALKED across a newly plowed field, where the soil was loose, so that I stepped down through often over my ankles. Small pebbles got into my ample work-a-day shoes and irked my soles until, from discomfort, I sat down flat upon the newly turned earth, untied the shoestrings and poured out the stones.

The soft moist dirt was velvet smooth under my feet, and the contrast with my former torture was so physically enjoyable that I just sat there and surveyed my close environment.

A katydid crawled from a clod and mounted an uncut stalk of oats that was only half turned under. She climbed almost to the spraggly head, smoothed her wings and sat there, as motionless as though she had no life.

In front of me, two furrows over, the share had struck a rock. A portion of the solid furrow bottom was visible for ten inches. Some stubbles and green weeds were not turned down. Just at the crumbling edge of the furrow slice, I thought I saw some moist dirt move. I watched it move again, and then the turned-in foot of a toad appeared. He moved apart from his earthy garment until his broad mouth and warty head turned toward me. A fly lit on a tiny clod less than an inch away. He made no slightest motion of his body, but I saw a forked blur and the unsuspecting fly had disappeared. I turned away for just a second, and when I observed again, it seemed he had gone beneath the earth. I looked right at him for a long moment before I saw the outline of his features once more. How well his protective coloring saved him from his enemies!

I have often seen him move back and forth until he buried his irregular body beneath a moist bed of gravel. Only the vari-colored back was visible, and the casual eye would never have detected it. In spring, I have seen his bagpipe swell out between his short front legs and then he sang a note as melodious as a bird.

Each year, before flowers come, his entire body quivers with his lowly music. The brooks and all low swampy places ring with the "peepers" chorus.

Must a creature have wings and feathers and a gaudy coloring to be admired? Must it fly gracefully on iridescent wings? Bright colored birds and painted butterflies are common sights that require little effort or imagination for their enjoyment. If we but knew, perhaps the lowly toad would take a place of interest of usefulness and as a singer among the feathered songsters.
